Wool continues at 23 cents in the local market, and is weak at that figure. A few of the larger lots are still holding but most of the clip has changed hands. Some of the growers think the price will recover, and return to former higher figures, but dealers say not.

Miss Bertha Mason of Dallas, Texas, who was formerly a missionary in Monterey, Mexico, will speak at the Church of Christ next Saturday evening. Miss Mason is a woman of winning personality and a speaker of great power. Her addresses at the Tanager Convention were among the best of the session.

Frank Berryman, aged 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Berryman of Philomath, died at the family home Wednesday night. His ailment was heart trouble, caused by a severe attack of typhoid fever some time ago, and from which the lad seemed never to have fully recovered. The funeral occurred from the M. E. church at Philomath at 10 o'clock this morning. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

A slight stroke of paralysis with which S. L. Shedd was stricken last week, keeps him confined in bed. He was able to be about until Tuesday, but at that time while out in the dooryard he became suddenly worse, and had to be carried in. A slight change for the better occurred yesterday morning however, and he has since continued to slowly improve. His brother, W. N. Shedd, of Lewiston, Trinitary county, California, has been wired for, and was expected to arrive today.

The Sunday school classes of Mrs. W. C. Shriber and Miss Leona Jackson to the number of twenty were entertained at the home of Mrs. Shriber one afternoon last week. At six o'clock sandwiches and tea were served. Games were the amusement for the evening after which ice cream and cake were enjoyed. The guests were George Hotchkiss, Guy Marb, Leo Bair, Dean Knox, Harry and Allen Cady, Earl Shriber, Earl Heckart, Misses Malo and Alice Cady, Ethel Norton, Mary Noyas, Mabel, Lettie, Nancy and Nora Dunham, Alice Harlan, Ethel Blaklee, Leona Jackson, Buella Gilkey.

Wallis Nash, who went east in the interest of the Co-operative Christian Federation, has returned to Portland and announces that work on the extension of the Corvallis & Eastern would begin in the near future, and an independent road would be built from Portland to connect with the C. & E. at Mehama, the whole calling for the laying of 269 miles of track. He claims to have found it no trouble so raise the money for the work as well as for other things in connection with the object of the Federation.

Melvin. The other went to Nettie Carden who sought dissolution of her marriage with Everett Carden. All the parties are from Five Rivers. Judge Harris left this afternoon, to hold a regular term of court in Lincoln county, beginning with a preliminary session tomorrow.

LOGGERS QUIT WORK.

Because Lane Went Dry—Some Results of the new Drouth.

A report from Springfield, says the Eugene Guard, is to the effect that quite a number of the employees of the Booth-Kelly sawmills at that place and at Wendling and a large number of the employees of the logging camps up the Willamette and McKenzie rivers have quit work because of the existence of prohibition in Lane county. It is said that many more of the mill hands will quit tonight when they receive their pay.

It is a well known fact that a large number of loggers are drinking men and those who think they cannot get along without liquor are not going to work where they can secure none.

These men quitting may inconvenience the Booth-Kelly Company to a considerable extent, but the company is now paying good wages and may be able to secure a better class of men to fill the places of those who quit.

As a result of the recent election says the Salem Journal, 15 regularly licensed saloons went out of business in Linn county, and with them three jug or gallon houses.

In Lane county 12 saloons closed in Eugene, 6 in Cottage Grove, 4 in Springfield, 2 in Blue River City and 1 at Waterville—25 in all.

In Lincoln about half a dozen went out of business, and in Yam hill 14.

In Eastern Oregon, Wallowa and Sherman counties went dry, while Malheur and Wasco went partially dry, Hood River being the main prohibition camp. The saloon keepers of Ontario and Vale, in Malheur will contest the law in the courts.

Fifty seven saloons in all went out of business in Western Oregon with a loss of revenue of about $30,000.

SERVING SENTENCE.

For Carrying Concealed Weapon—Wanted to Start new County Court off Right

John Stahlbush is serving out a five days sentence in the city jail, for carrying a concealed weapon, having been remanded yesterday by Police Judge Yates in default of a fine of $10. John was on the war path over at the court house when the weapon was taken away from him by Constable Wells. Stahlbush was out of humor with his taxes. He failed to pay them in time to get the rebate and in fact until after they became delinquent and there is now penalty and interest amounting to about $5. The whole amount, penalty and interest included is $47.35. He thinks the county court is to blame for the condition, and was before the new commissioner's court twice during its session yesterday forenoon, arguing his case. He finally drifted into the sheriff's office where he told Officer Wells that he was over to see that the new court got started off right and that, (patting his hip pocket) "he had de ting here to do it wid." He pulled out the gun far enough to display the handle, when Officer Wells promptly disarmed him. Though the Waters administration had nothing whatever to do with the penalty and interest on his taxes, John thinks it had and has a grudge against it to match. He has no grudge against the new court.
