WILL TRY MILKING MACHINE.

At the College—Several now in use in Oregon—Claim it is Cleaner.

The milking machine is to be the subject of test at the college. One is to be installed at the barn in the near future, and it will be kept in operation a year. The purpose is to test its efficiency and practicability. A dozen or more cows will be divided into two herds, receiving like attention, equal rations and the same sanitary care. One lot will be milked with the machine and the other in the good old fashioned way, the milk product of each being carefully noted and accounted for. In making the division of the cows care will be exercised to get a proper balance as to the milk yield between the two lots. The outcome of the test ought to establish the value of the machine to a certainty.

The machine has its supporters and its opponents. All new things have both of these. Some say the milk from the machine will show a reduction of unavoidable filth compared with milk taken from the cow by the hand. The machines are liberally used now in the state of New York. Four or five of them are in use in Oregon, mostly at the big dairies along the Columbia.

Having since noon yesterday eluded officials of Washington county, detectives and others who desired interviews, she was located by Detective A. G. Vaughn at 10:30 o'clock last night and presented with the subpoena, directing her to appear at Hillsboro tomorrow. She hid carefully concealed herself in the Portland Hotel, but emerged for a few moments to mail a letter. She had changed rooms frequently to avoid being found.

Instead of mailing the letter at the hotel, she crossed Sixth street to the postoffice, and in going to the government building was overtaken by the detective. She wasn't the least bit startled when he flashed the document but merely smiled. "How did you know I was here?" she asked.

Mrs Snyder aroused quite a little excitement and commotion at Hillsboro by her failure to appear there yesterday, as she had promised. Armed with a subpoena Sheriff Connell came to Portland yesterday afternoon, and with the aid of several detectives made a rigid search for the missing witness. She cleverly avoided them, however, and it was not until a late hour last night that they found a trace of her.

When finally located she declared that she would offer no objection to telling all she knows about the robbery of the Forest Grove bank and the disappearance and murder of her husband, Carey M. M. Snyder.

This morning, however, she had evidently exercised the right of her sex and changed her mind. For in an interview with The Journal she stated that she was not at all decided whether or not she would make the trip to Hillsboro. "Yes, I know they served a subpoena on me," she said, "but I am not here, am I?" She was in room 654 at the Portland hotel when she was speaking.

"Indeed, I don't know whether I will go or not," she continued, "I am not at all decided. I don't know much that would be of interest to any one, and I am so tired of talking about the affair. There is nothing I care to say about George Perry or any one else in connection with the affair."

The Dalles, Or., Oct. 7.—Robert Hutchison, the 6-year-old son of J. F. Hutchison, of this city, died here today under most singular circumstances. Wednesday last the child complained of toothache, and on the following day was taken to a dentist who found a considerable swelling surrounding a hollow tooth. He applied the usual remedies, but yesterday the child became so ill that a physician was called, who pronounced it a well-developed case of lockjaw. Treatment by anti-tetanus serum proved futile, the little boy living but 24 hours after a doctor was called. This is the first case of lockjaw ever known in this locality.
