—The Mathloma arrived up the river Saturday. She is pulling snags in the cutoff channel of the Willamette southeast outflow. There is 100 feet of water in the channel now but is dangerous for navigation on account of snags and a crooked channel. The Mathloma should be kept at her present work until the last of the snags are removed both in the cutoff and above. The channel of the river which the main flow has deserted for the cutoff is too shallow for navigation now, and boats have to use the new route, which besides being narrow and soggy is very swift. The snag boat could, with much ease, make it perfectly safe.

—Deeds have been filed at the court house as follows: Emma Mattoon to Lila R. Miller, small tract near Summit, $25; G. E. Albin and wife to G. W. Leeper, one-half lot in Philomath, $135; W. I. Former players who played as alumni were Rod Nash, fullback; Zopbar Tharp, quarter; Joe Emily, end, Joe Handley, tackle; Peck Bier, halfback, and Frank Edwards, center. Most of the other positions were filled by second team and down town players. The game was uneventful, the first three minutes of play during which a touchdown was made, being a very good exhibition of football. After that, the play was ragged, according to the statement of onlookers. In the evening a reception was given, at which, brief addresses were made by E. E. Wilson and Mark McAllister. The regular game in the afternoon was preceded by a game between the second team and a public school eleven in which the honors were even and the outcome scoreless.

—There is trouble ahead for persons who have been too hardy with paint brushes, of late. Buildings, vehicles, fences, and every species of property, movable and immovable have been defaced. Perhaps it is thought by those who do it, to be funny. Possibly it is conceived to be smart. So far as heard from no man whose property has been touched up, regards the matter as a joke. with the speed of an express train. Other American vessels of war were caught in the full fury of the gale and thousands of dollars' of damage was done before the wind had spent its fury.

In the city conditions were as bad, if not worse, than in the harbor. Many buildings were leveled to the ground and scores of persons lost their lives in the wreck. Searchers have already found hundreds of dead and maimed bodies in the debris and every hour's work brings new tragedies to light.

Like paper the tents of Camp Columbus were swept down, where the American troops were quartered, not a rag was abode remaining to mark the former site of the camp after the storm. Lifted by the gale the tents were swept across the country and the shreds of canvas scattered for miles. Personal belongings of the soldiers were blown in every direction and many of the men were injured by falling tents and flying wreckage.

A delayed special from Jacksonville, Fla., this afternoon says that the greatest damage by the tornado occurred on the extreme south coast of Florida, about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The tornado swept the peninsula early in the morning, doubled back and hit the coast with increasing force.

A conductor on the east coast line from Miami reports that the steamer St. Lucile, with a crew of 40, is supposed to be lost off the south coast of Florida in the hurricane Wednesday night. Portions of the superstructure and smashed small boats were washed ashore.

Every building in Miami was damaged and scores of persons hurt. It is thought that none is seriously injured. The water flooded the streets to a depth of several feet, and residences were blown down and public buildings wrecked by the storm. It is feared, also, that the wireless which had started out from Havana were caught in the storm. They carry wireless telegraph equipment, but the station at Key West has been unable to pick them up.

Communication with Havana, which was completely cut off last night, was restored this noon by the Western Union Telegraph company, and the officials of the company report that the damage at the capital of Cuba was fearful.

At Miami, according to the latest reports, more than 150 houses were blown down by the storm. The rear sheds and roofs were blown off the Peninsula and Occidental steamer sheds and, among other buildings wrecked, were the Methodist and Episcopal churches.

Houses were ruined at Key West and Havana was totally isolated for hours. The storm tore through Central Cuba with full force, then passed out to sea, sweeping across the Atlantic ocean toward the Bermuda Islands.
