CORVALLIS, OREGON,
TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 6, 1906.

SHOULD RESIGN.

It may smack of the cruel to say so, but there is a fact in Oregon affairs that somebody ought to assert. The two congressmen from Oregon ought to resign. Mr. Williamson has been found guilty of a misdemeanor by a court, and is under sentence. He is also under indictment for another offense. Mr. Williamson has said that he will never occupy his seat in congress until his name has been cleared. Unfortunately for him, and for his district, the courts have set a stigma on his record that cannot be erased in time for him to serve any part of his term in congress. Mr. Williamson can do nothing in congress for Oregon at the coming session.

Mr. Hermann is not more fortunately situated so far as anything he can do for Oregon is concerned. He is under indictment. He can still occupy his seat and vote and draw salary, but that is all he can do. His influence is gone. Congress may not be all good and true, but it has enough of decency left that a man mixed in any way with Oregon land frauds could not be tolerated as a factor and a figure in the transaction of congressional business. In the very nature of things, Mr. Hermann can do nothing. Yet, for Mr. Hermann and Mr. Williamson to continue to cling to their membership, means that Oregon must practically go unrepresented in the lower house. It is a sacrifice these gentlemen ought not to ask the state to make.

Oregon has been good to both of them. It has loaded them with honors, distinction and emoluments. The state is in no sense responsible for the mess in which they are unhappily and unfortunately mixed. That is of their own doing, and under the circumstances, they ought not to permit what is their bad fortune to stand in the way of progress of the state.

Oregon has need of a strong representation now at the national capital. The era of railroad and other development now on and the rapidly extending commerce heightens the need of federal aid for our rivers and harbors. Mr. Williamson and Mr. Hermann ought to resign so their seats could be filled and occupied by men who would push measures for Oregon. It is an act that the people of the state would appreciate, and one that would tend to soften and mellow the estimate many citizens are wont to hold them in. Since resignation is the means by which both can best serve the state, neither should hesitate to take the step.

A lecture in Chicago last week said: "It is a sign of lunacy to be a football enthusiast, to have the postal card fad, and to be fond of dancing." And in some cases, to be a lecturer, he might have added.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. OREGON AGRICULTURE WON.

Beat Pacific University at Football by Overwhelming Score.

O. A. C. made a good showing at football Saturday. Her team beat Pacific University, 28 to 0. Four touchdowns, four goals and a place kick are the record. Finn kicked every goal that came his way, and made a place kick besides. Though Pacific's men were the heavier, they were no match for the Aggies. A touchdown and a place kick in the first half and three touchdowns in the second were easy work for Norcross' men on a field extremely heavy and with rain falling and wind blowing throughout the game.

Pacific did not make yardage once while in all OAC reeled of 388 yards. The one criticism heard of the college boys is that they did not play fast enough. Pacific fumbled quite often, but Pendergrass helped them to do it by repeatedly breaking through their line. The story of the game was like this:

Wolff kicked off and after three attempts Pacific failed to make yardage, and tried a punt, which was blocked by Pendergrass. OAC took the ball and in eight plays by Hanan, Wolff and Cady, Cady went over for a touchdown in eight minutes of play.

Pacific kicked and by running ends and line bucks OAC rushed the ball 65 yards, where Finn made a place kick from the 25 yard line. Time, 17 minutes.

Pacific kicked off and after netting 20 yards on a quarter back kick, OAC rushed the ball 24 yards and lost it on downs. Pacific tumbled and the half ended with the ball in the center of the field in OAC's hands.

In the second half, Pacific kicked and after working the ball 50 yards, the Aggies fumbled. Pacific tried two formations and tumbled, and OAC rushed the ball 40 yards for a touchdown by Wolff. Time, six minutes.

Pacific kicked and the Aggies carried the ball 47 yards and punted. After an exchange of fumbles Wolff punted 20 yards and Harding captured the pigskin. A few formations carried Hanan over for a touchdown. Time, 15 minutes.

Pacific kicked and after working the ball 46 yards OAC was held. Pacific returned the punt and Wolff made a fair catch. In the next formation Hanan got away and crossed the goal line after a 45 yard run. Time, 20 minutes. When time was called it was Pacific's ball on her own five yard line. The line up was:

FOR ALL THE SCHOOLS.

In the County—Books Arrived for Libraries—Clerks Must Call for Them.

Nearly $400 worth of books arrived at the court house Saturday, for distribution among the school libraries of the county. In exact figures their value is $367. A library tax is now a regular feature of the annual taxes. The sum raised is devoted to the purchase of books for the libraries of the various schools. Last year, the basis of levy was 14 cents per capita of school children and in Benton it yielded $367.

The books for each district are supposed to be selected by the directors and clerk from a list set apart by the library commission. The latter is composed of the governor, the librarian of the Portland library and two appointed persons. The selections by the commission are said to be most excellent, comprising fiction, science and a vast variety of superb books. There is a contract with reference to the purchase of the books with the various schools in Benton are now ready for delivery by Superintendent Denman, and the school clerks are expected to call and get them, as there is no provision for the expense of shipment.

HUGHES WAS HERE.

New York gubernatorial Candidate Came to Corvallis to Buy Railroad.

Charles E. Hughes, candidate for governor of New York, was once in Corvallis. That was in December 1893. With a colleague, he came as attorney for the Blair faction of the bondholders to buy the Oregon Pacific railroad. It was in debt a million and a quarter for material and labor. An expert had traveled over the line and placed its value at a million. The sale was at auction at the court house, and David Osburn was sheriff. The reading of the order of sale and other ceremonies occupied an hour. Lawyer Hughes stood in the group and when the crucial moment arrived he handed the sheriff a certified check for $200,000 and named that sum as his bid. Nobody else wanted to buy. "Sold," shouted the sheriff after vain efforts for another bid and the ceremony ended. After the sale, Mr. Hughes who was a genial gentleman, gave the following interview to the Times.

"The purchase of the road has been made by the united action of responsible parties interested in the development of the property. It is expected that the road will soon be put on a strong basis, and be operated so as to benefit the communities contiguous to the road, as well as its owners."

The road was purchased for J. J. Belden, Henry Martin, F. L. Pendleton, S. S. Hollingsworth, Joseph Wharton and James A. Baird. The sale was not confirmed by Judge Fullerton, and at a resale some months later went to Mr. Hammond for $100,000.

TRAGIC IN ITS BREVITY.

The Story of the Duel Between Hamilton and Burr.

The story of the Hamilton-Burr duel is tragic in its brevity. The little party of five—the principals, their seconds and the surgeon—was on the ground not long after sunrise. The preliminaries were soon arranged. As Pendleton, Hamilton's second, gave him his pistol, he asked, "Will you have the hairspring set?"

"Not this time," was the significant reply, and then the men faced each other.

According to the best authorities upon a disputed subject, Burr fired at the word. At the report, Hamilton started forward with a convulsive movement, reeled, involuntarily discharging his pistol into the foliage above him, and fell headlong. Burr, with an expression of pain upon his face, sprang toward him, but Van Ness, his second, seized him by the arm and hurried him down the bank and into their boat. Hamilton, being lifted up, revived for a moment and gasped, "This is a mortal wound, doctor!" Relapsing again into unconsciousness he was again revived by the fresh air of the river. "Pendleton knows," he said, trying to turn toward his friends, "that I did not intend to fire at him."

At 2 the afternoon following he had breathed his last.

Monster Bowl of Punch.

In 1694 Admiral Edward Russell, commander of the English Mediterranean fleet, entertained 6,000 people in a large garden in Alicante, where he served the largest bowl of punch ever brewed. It contained twenty gallons of lime juice, four hogheads of brandy, one pipe of Malaga wine, twenty-five hundred lemons, thirteen hundredweight of fine white sugar, three packages of toasted biscuits, fifty-one pounds of grated nutmegs and eight hogheads of water.

The whole was prevented from dilution in case of rain by a large canopy, which spread over a marble fountain bowl which held the punch. The punch was served by a boy, who rowed about the basin of the fountain in a boat built for the purpose and refilled the empty cups.

Two Scotch Stories.

A Scotch schoolmaster in Banffshire years ago had strong views on the subject of dress. In the day when crinoline was the rage a girl came to school with a very extensive one, which much exceeded the space between the desk and the form on which she had to sit. The teacher, seeing this, said to her, "Gang awa' home and tak' off these girds (hoops) and come back to the school as God made ye."

Another rough and ready domineer was examining his boys in a catechism and asked if God had a beginning. "No," said the boy. "Will he have an end?" "Yes," he replied. This was followed instantly by a buffet on the side of the head. "Will he have an end now?" "No," said the boy, and the master was satisfied.
