CORVALLIS, OREGON,
FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 23, 1906

DR. WILSON.

A Portland minister approves the act of young Murray who shot the man who ruined his sister. He is Rev. Clarence True Wilson and he publicly expresses the hope that Murray may escape punishment.

Dr. Wilson may not be strictly orthodox but there's a world of significance in his attitude. If there were more Wilsons there would be fewer ruined girls. There is a propaganda in every country devoted to that enterprise. It has representatives on every street corner who resort to every wile to capture a dupe. There are Stanford Whites in every strata of life and in every land. Temptations are spread before innocent girls that would shock the world if it knew of them. There are arts resorted to that would bring the blush to the cheek of the devil. Men, young and old, some who ought to be preparing for a coffin pursue, and afterward boast of their exploits. While their helpless victims go into ostracism and suffer the torments of the damned, the men hob nob in society and escape all penalty. For purposes of punishment by law, it is an unreachable condition because so many men look upon it as a matter of course. It cannot be remedied by law because penalties even, if adequate, could not be commensurately enforced. It is the rottenness of all the rotten phases of society, as the Thaw case has abundantly shown. It is all this that brings out the Dr. Wilsons. It at least compels admiration for his ringing words. Though we hesitate to advise resort to the six-shooter, how else can brothers defend wronged sisters. Who would manacle Murray?

Hot air has always flowed freely from the Portland press against the U. of O. and her football team, but their recent chinook zephyrs have the boys from Eugene up in the air like a bunch of toy balloons. Thus, the great Bezdek will not permit the great Moulten, nor the greater Latourette nor the still greater Hug to play with the "farmers" tomorrow as he is saving them for the great game with the great Multnomah on the great Thanksgiving day. It is also said that the great Chandler and the great Clark will be on the sidelines whence it is supposed that the great team from the great university will be represented by a bunch of boys from the public schools. Great Scott, can this be true!

If, as a Kansas paper asseverates the number of cubic feet of gas in an ordinary man is 3,000, the number in some men is not less than a billion.

Baptist Church.

A most cordial invitation is extended to the services of the Baptist church of this city. The pastor was delighted to welcome so many persons who came into our services for the first time last Sunday morning and evening. He was especially glad to have so many of the students of the college in attendance. It is purposed and sincerely hoped that these services may be an inspiration and a help to all.

Following is the outline for the services for next Sunday, November 25 to a. m. Sunday school. Mr. G. A. Robinson superintendent. 11 a. m. sermon by the pastor. Subject: "The Measure of our Responsibility" 6:30 young peoples services, leader Louis Bennett. 7:30 p. m. Subject: "Soaring the Wind; Reaping the Whirlwind." Special evangelistic meetings are planned beginning the last Sunday in D. C. or the first Sunday in January. Rev. J. A. Pettit leader. If you do not have a church home elsewhere come and share one with us. You will be welcomed. Frederick W. Carstens pastor.

CHANGE OF TIME.

On Corvallis & Eastern—New Train to Portland—Better Service for Corvallis.

Changes in train schedules to take place next Sunday, will give Corvallis a better train service than ever. By it, three trains for Portland will be available daily, and with close connections, via Albany. The 6:30 morning train will put the passenger into Portland at 11:45 as usual. The afternoon overland for Portland is changed so as to leave Albany at 2:05, and a train from Corvallis to connect with it will put the passenger into Portland at five o'clock p. m. A completely new convenience is that a new overland train is to be put on the Southern Pacific and it will pass Albany northbound just in time for the six o'clock C. & E. to connect with it, laying the passenger down in Portland at 11:30 in the evening. It is an array of train conveniences such as Corvallis has never enjoyed before, and for which the town owes general gratitude to the C. & E. and its stub train.

The new time card will involve several changes of time. Though not yet announced, it is expected that the Westside will arrive on its former schedule of 11:45. It is also asserted that its departing time will be changed to 12:40, but the announcement is not authoritative, and may not be true. The Yaquina train will go back to its old schedule and leave for Albany at 11:30, and leave for the Bay at 1:42. The train that now leaves for Albany at 1:30, will start at 12:45 and make close connections with a northbound overland leaving Albany at 2:05. The train that now arrives from Albany at 4:30 will reach here at 3:05, making close connections with the train from the south on the Eastside. The new arrangement will give Corvallis by far the best train service she ever had. It will in fact give her as good service as is enjoyed by the most favored Eastside town.

THEN AND NOW.

Episode of the Days of Ninety Four—Blasted Hopes and Busted Bank Accounts.

The old time Corvallisite and perhaps the new one, will be interested in a brief editorial article encountered in a file of the TIMES yesterday. It appeared in the days when the Job bank assignment, the Carriage factory assignment and many other bankruptcies were pending in the local courts. At one time no less than 11 such assignments were carried on the dockets at the court house. What makes the article especially diverting, is that present activities and bustle are in strong contrast with the melancholy picture presented in the article. The article appeared November 29, 1894, and ran thus: "God speed the assignees of the various Corvallis concerns that went to the wall last year. For more than a year these shadows have hung over the business horizon, a reminder of blasted hopes and busted bank accounts. The public is tired of the familiar words, 'assignments, assignees and creditors' and longs for the time when the courts and the newspapers will be burdened with them no more. All hope that it may be a long time before another Corvallis concern gasps for breath, turns pale and drops by the wayside."

The Name Niagara. "Everybody pronounces Niagara wrong," said a philologist. The accent of this beautiful Indian word should not be put on the syllable 'ag,' but on the syllable 'ar'—the penult—the one before the last. Niagara means 'hark to the thunder.' Its accent should fall on the penult because the Indians themselves accent it there, because in practically all our Indian names of places the penult is the accented syllable. Think of the Indian names you know. Don't you accent nearly all of them on the syllable before the last? There are, for instance, Toronto, Mississippi, Alleghany, Appalachicola, Narragansett, Tuscaloosa, Saratoga, Ticonderoga, Oswego, Conshohocken, Wissahickon and Hochelaga. In all these names the accent is on the penult. Niagara is a Huron word, and if you can find a Huron you will find that he accents it as he does Saratoga or Tuscaloosa. I don't know how we have fallen into the habit of accenting it wrong."—Chicago Chronicle.

A Good Recommendation. An Irishman was charged with a petty offense. "Have you any one in court who will vouch for your good character?" queried the judge.

"Yes, sorr; there is the chief constable yonder," answered Pat. The chief constable was amazed. "Why, your honor, I don't even know the man," protested he. "Now, sorr," broke in Pat, "I have lived in the borough for nearly twenty years, and if the chief constable doesn't know me yet, isn't that a character for yes?"

HAS QUIT THE NORTH.

And Will Now Stay in the States—After Many Years—Percival Nash.

Percival Nash, one of the old graduates and a member of the pioneer football team at OAC, was in town yesterday for a few hours. Ever since the discovery of gold there, he has been in Alaska. He went with the first rush to Dawson and has been operating in the frozen north ever since. Of late he has been trapping and trading with the Esquimaux and freighting with dog teams. In the trading business he has exchanged supplies for furs, a business that kept him much of the time far removed from the frontier civilization of the Dawson country. At times he spent months in the frozen fastnesses without the sight of the face of a human being. It was on such an occasion that he accidentally shot himself and would have lost his life but for his dog. The wound was in the leg and of such character that the wounded man was scarcely more than able to move. It was only with the greatest difficulty that he managed to keep his fire going and prepare food enough to keep himself alive. After two weeks of terrible hardship his dog attracted the attention of a man who happened to be passing through the lonely country, and help was at hand. The hardships endured by Mr. Nash in being transported to Dawson along with the details of the incident formed an interesting story in the TIMES several months after it happened.

Mr. Nash is now completely recovered from the injury, but the terrible hours he passed through are days that he will never forget. He has quit the North and will not return there. He left yesterday for Portland, and after a couple of days will join his brother Desboro, at San Francisco. The latter is understood to have amassed considerable wealth.
