BECAME SUDDENLY INSANE.

And Shot her Cousin Dead—Former Benton County Girl—Sent to Asylum.

A tragedy occurred in the home of Eugene Palmer near Albany, yesterday morning. Mr. Palmer was for many years a resident of Benton county, living many years near Granger and is well known here. How his daughter, aged 28, shot and killed her cousin as he sat talking to her father, is told as follows, in the Albany Democrat:

"Miss Melcina Palmer this morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of her father shot and killed her cousin William P. Palmer. Mr. Palmer aged twenty-five, arrived only Saturday from Monmouth on a visit with his uncle. This morning the uncle and nephew were sitting together in the sitting room beside the stove talking, when Miss Palmer entered the room and took a seat on the sofa back of them. Suddenly, without any warning she stood up and fired a revolver, which she had concealed, at her cousin, hitting him in the back of his head, and he fell over dead. The revolver belonged to her father which he kept in his bed room, where she had gotten it.

In May, 1905, Miss Palmer was committed to the asylum, raving insane. In September, she had improved so much she was permitted to go home on a three months' leave of absence. Since then she had been rational and up to the time of shooting had displayed no signs of anything out of the ordinary. Afterwards she became wild, rolled on the floor, and had to be taken charge of.

Coroner William Fortmiller, Dr. Trimble and Sheriff D. S. Smith immediately went to the scene of the murder where an inquest was held. Miss Palmer will be brought to Albany where she will be recommitted to the asylum probably the only solution of the terrible problem.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Regardless of threats that he would be lynched if he touches on the race problem in his lecture here Tuesday for the benefit of the Chicago Union Hospital, Senator Tillman announces that he hopes treatment of the negro will be what he will talk about. He wants no police guard and says his life has been so often threatened that he has ceased to give the matter even a thought.

The Senator arrived today from St. Louis, held a conference with the society, under whose auspices he will lecture, and left for South Haven, Mich. He will lecture in Platteville, Wis., Monday and return to Chicago.

"I am surprised that Chicago should be aroused by threats of a negro uprising," he said. "It's ridiculous. I shall talk directly on the race problem. My lecture on the question 'Shall the United States Annex Cuba?' will bring the race issue at once into the limelight. The negroes say I have boasted of taking part in lynchings. This is untrue. Thirty years ago I was in one or two riots, but they were political and had nothing to do with lynchings. I have never been present at a lynching. But I have said that I will lead a mob to lynch any man who has attacked a woman, black or white. I hardly think I'll retract that statement.

"The fact that the Chicago negroes have asked the mayor to prevent my lecture is no surprise. They have had such liberties in the North that they presume to control everything. I am not afraid of any negro that lives. Threats against my life have been made so often that they don't even seem the importance of incidents. I want no police man to guard me. I'll walk the streets of Chicago alone. I suppose negroes will seek admittance to the lecture hall. Let them come. A race war? Impossible."

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Keatney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. THE GAME SCORELESS.

O. A. C. and University of Oregon Teams Play Each Other to a Standstill at Football.

The annual game of football between the State University and O. A. C. elevens was played on College field Saturday afternoon, and pigskin history will record that it was scoreless. It was a game to satisfy the most exacting enthusiast. At one time, OAC had it almost in her grasp, when Wolff's good right leg sent the sphere spinning within a foot of a field goal. Eugene likewise, was once within reach of it when OAC fumbled and gave the University the ball on the College fifteen yard line. The University men were poor at handling the ball, however, and they fumbled back to OAC, by the act, fumbling away the one and only chance they had during the long thirty minute halves to score.

The two teams were not illy matched. OAC was fifteen pounds lighter to the man but played with a spirit and dash that completely counterbalanced the lack of beef. They couldn't smash the heavy University line for gains, but they didn't need to. They were better punters, their back field was better in handling punts, and their ends were faster and better in getting down on punts. The University players were better at rushing the ball and had a better interference. They made yardage with considerable consistency for a part of the first half, but after being driven 40 yards or so the Aggies rallied and stopped their big opponents' even for losses and thereafter the University bunch made no more consistent gains by rushing tactics. After that the game resolved itself largely into a punting duel, varied by occasional good runs by Moores for the University. The longer punts and the better handling of them gave OAC a big advantage with the result that in the second half the College men, starting from their own 20 yard line, gradually worked the ball to the University's 20 yard line, where it rested when the game ended. Eugene strove desperately to make good an oft-repeated boast that the OAC bunch would be scalped, and before the game ended had every available resource on the firing line. Moulten was hurried in to punt and was easily beaten at the business by Wolff. Hug, who entered the game as head lineman was taken from that ancient and honorable position and sent to center, where Cherry was badly outplaying his antagonist. It may be added that Cherry actually did not know until after the game that the change had been made.

The University has a team of big men. Their average weight is 174. OAC's only averaged 159 pounds. The excellent showing by the lighter and less experienced team is largely due to the determined and reckless spirit with which they went into the game. It was one of the best exhibitions of pluck and fighting enthusiasm ever seen on the local field.

The game brought out the fact that there are new stars in the OAC eleven. One of them is Wolff, a Portland boy whose coolness and consistency in punting was a large factor in saving the day. Though the conditions were the worst possible for kicking and though he punted many times every trial sent the sphere a long way and apparently where the fullback wanted it to go. His punts averaged 31 yards while the University's yielded an average of 24. Another whose playing was a revelation was Dobbin, at whom a fierce interference was often driven but who invariably smashed it with an accuracy and dash that never failed. Bennett, Pendergrass and Cherry, were other linemen whose work stood out, although every man in a line position, as the result shows did yeoman work. The ends in getting down on punts and in recovering the ball on punts were unusually good. The men in the back field too, who in spite of the muddy field muffed but a single punt, were a big factor in the result and made a record worthy of far older players.

In the first half OAC had the kickoff. The University made yardage and fumbled and after an interchange of fumbles the lem-on players rushed the ball into O. A. C. territory. There the OAC line began to hold and punting was resorted to. The University would take an occasional turn at rushing but as soon as the collegians learned to get under the plays that tactics proved ineffective. After that it was almost wholly a punting duel throughout the rest of the half. The ball was in OAC's possession on her 20 yard line when time was called.

In the second half the University kicked off. OAC punted at once,

Wolff sending the sphere far past center. Moores soon got away for a 30 yard run but was stopped in the nick of time by Gagnon. OAC got the ball after a few plays and booted it far back into Eugene's territory. An interchange of punts netted OAC 20 yards, and Moulten's failure to punt after he went in lost more ground for the University. Harding captured OAC's own punt and the punting duel which the game by this time had developed into, proceeded, OAC gained more and more of ground until when time was called Eugene was on her own 20 yard line and gradually falling back before the Collegians.

When the game closed the OAC players and rooters seized Norcross and lifting him to their shoulders bore him in triumph from the field. Thirteen hundred people saw the game. Bruce Shorts and C. E. Abbott officiated. The lineup was as follows:

O. A. C.	Position.	U. of O.

Second Entertainment—At the Opera House.

Reno B. Welbourn, the "Wizard of Electricity," will appear "in an evening of marvelous experiments" entitled "In the year 2000."

This prophecy was prepared with the personal assistance of Nicola Teola, Lord Kelvin, Marconi, Sir William Crookes, and the noted scientists and the Tacoma Ledger says of it: "It is a prophecy of the future. Mr. Welbourn's experiments are numerous, quickly done and stunning in their import. The dreams of humanity are made realities before the eyes of the audience and nothing seems to longer remain on the list of impossibilities. At times when Mr. Welbourn becomes warmed up to the marvelous of his theme, he displays an eloquence which holds his audience enthralled."
