A CITY IN RUINS

EARTHQUAKE DESTROYS KINGSTON AND FIRE SOON FOLLOWS.

Four Hundred Dead and Thousands Injured—Sir James Ferguson Killed—Americans Escape—Other News.

Portland, O., Jan. 16.—The Oregonian: Kingston, the picturesque capital of the island of Jamaica, has been devastated by a violent earthquake.

Details of the disaster are lacking, as direct communication with the stricken city has been cut off. The land lines had been reconstructed to within five miles of Kingston Tuesday evening, and from meager reports received through such channels as were opened it has been learned that many of the most important buildings have been destroyed and that there have been serious losses of life.

So far as the reports indicate the fatalities number less than one hundred, though the hospitals are filled with injured and the list of the victims may be largely increased.

Kingston and the other points of interest on the island are at this season of the year thronged with tourists from both America and England, and the greatest apprehension is felt for the safety of many persons who had recently arrived at the Jamaican resort. The most distinguished of these were members of a party of English statesmen, agricultural experts and men of affairs, who under the leadership of Sir Alfred Jones had arrived in Kingston within the past few days to attend an agricultural conference there.

The first great shock was felt about 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, and flames sprang immediately from the wreckage to carry on the work of destruction. Tuesday afternoon the fire was still burning, although it was believed to be under control.

The Myrtle Bank Hotel, the principal hotel at Kingston, which probably sheltered the great bulk of visitors on the island, is destroyed. The great military hospital was burned and 40 soldiers reported dead.

Sir James Ferguson is said to have been instantly killed, but according to London reports no other Englishmen, Canadians or Americans are believed to be missing.

The extent of the destruction which has been wrought in Kingston, a city which already bears the scars of a number of serious visitations of fire, earthquakes and cyclones in years gone by, is still left largely to the imagination.

The city is one of low-lying buildings, clustered along the shores of one of the finest and most securely land-locked harbors in the West Indies. The population which numbers 50,000, is largely made up of native blacks.

Many steamers, carrying tourists to Jamaica were on the way to the island when the earthquake occurred, but it so happened that, according to schedules, none of the ships from New York or Boston was in Kingston Harbor Monday afternoon.

London, Jan. 15.—The colonial office tonight received confirmation of the terrible disaster which has overtaken Kingston, Jamaica, in a dispatch from Hamar Greenwood, M. P., sent from Holland, at the east end of the island.

The telegram says Kingston has been ruined by an earthquake which occurred without warning Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A very great number of buildings and dwellings were destroyed either by the earthquake or by the consequent fire.

The military hospital was burned and 40 soldiers were reported to have been killed, together with several prominent citizens and many other inhabitants of the city. Sir James Ferguson is reported to have been killed instantly.

The city is quiet but disciplined workers are needed. Up to this hour the foregoing is the most correct dispatch regarding the Kingston disaster that has been received here. The absence of details is accounted for by the breakdown in cable communication, but the announcement that no Englishmen, Canadians or Americans were missing will greatly reassure the public concerning the fate of the unusual number of tourists and others who are spending the winter in Jamaica or who were attracted there by the agricultural and cotton conferences.

The news of the disaster reached London too late tonight to become generally known to the public, but it will bring home to the imagination of the British people the terrors of an earthquake in a way that even the San Francisco catastrophe failed to do.

Owing to the active efforts in recent years of Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Alfred Jones, the commercial development of Jamaica has made the island much better known and it has been greatly in favor as a winter resort.

New York, Jan. 16.—Cooke's Tourist agency estimates that 2,000 Americans were visiting in Kingston at the time of the quake. Dispatches this afternoon say that the city is practically ruined. The dead are estimated at 400 and the property loss is $15,000,000. Later calculations will probably increase this. Communication has been partially restored. The fatalities are confined mostly to natives. The English and American tourists lost most of their personal effects. Most all of the hotels were destroyed.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 16.—Kingston was overwhelmed by an earthquake at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. All houses within a radius of ten miles were damaged. Almost every house in the city was destroyed. Fire broke out after the earthquake and completed the work of destruction. The business section of the city is a smoldering heap of ruins. The killed number about 400. Thousands were injured. Churches, public offices and hotels are gone. No fatalities occurred at the Constant Springs hotel. Sir James Ferguson was among the killed.

Salem, Or., Jan. 16.—Herman Rothchild, representative from Union county and the lone democrat of the house, was elected by the republicans of his district because they had faith that he was the hardest and most consistent fighter of county division to be found in that section. In his campaign he had to make a fight against his democratic friends in union because they favored the division of Union county for political reasons, thinking it would give them more chance for control of county government should Union be put in the center by itself. He won out against a normal republican majority of 500 because the majority did not wish to see the county cut in two.

This shows that the idea of county division is not dead and there are other indications. A. A. Jayne of Hood River, is in attendance of the legislature, and although he is a member of the third house this session yet he is here to renew his fight for the creation of Cascade county, hoping to carve away a portion of Wasco and leave The Dalles with the bone of the country and Hood river take the pick of the valley soil and the land of the big red apples.

According to Mr. Jayne a great many of the people of that district around Hood River wish to see the creation of the county. More than 1,000 property owners in the district have signed a petition asking that the new county be created. All the opposition, says Mr. Jayne, is on political grounds, and there is great hope of being able to pass the measure at this session since the enactment of the direct primary law does away with the advantages of keeping all the country in the limits of Wasco.

People down Prineville way are also planning for the creation of three new counties out of what is now Crook county. The divisional lines of the new counties will follow the principal waterways and will be known as Crook, Deschutes and Madras counties. So far there has been no active steps taken in regard to the creation of the new counties, but the measures are in course of preparation and will be introduced in a short time. When they come before the legislature it is certain that the fight of two years ago will be renewed and that there will be a warm contest before the question is settled.

GOV. CHAMBERLAIN

INAUGURATED SECOND TIME AS GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF OREGON.

Recommendations by the Governor—Both Houses in Joint Session Listen to the Message—Other News.

Salem, Or., Jan. 15.—George E. Chamberlain took the oath of office this afternoon before Chief Justice Bean and was the second time inaugurated governor of Oregon. He read his inaugural message to both houses assembled in joint session at 1:30 o'clock. The reading occupied the greater part of the afternoon, after which both houses adjourned until tomorrow.

Gover Chamberlain in his inaugural address makes the following recommendations to the legislature:

The creation of a railroad commission, to be appointed by the governor; improvement of waterways and purchase of Oregon City locks, appropriation for maintenance of portage road, election of Bourne and Mulkey as United States senators, income tax and increased tax on inheritances, flat salary for state printer, one board of control for state normal schools, more equitable apportionment of representation in legislature, anti-pass law, state to pay necessary traveling expenses of officials, state inspection of private banks, liberal appropriation for Seattle exposition, prohibition of lobbying, except under close restrictions; publicity of election expenditures; no corporation contributions; state supervision of private insane asylums, state asylum for feeble-minded children, desert land and school-land legislation.

Salem, Or., Jan. 16.—Hunter's licenses will be a thing of the past after the adjournment of the present session if J. D. Simmons of Marion county has his way. He has introduced a bill asking that the law now in force be repealed and declared to be of no force.

Mr. Simmons would not make so strenuous opposition to the bill if the money resultant from the licenses was put into a fund to insure the protection of the game of the state, but he does not like to see it go into the school fund.

"If it protected the game of the state, all right," says Representative Simmons, "but I think that I should be allowed to take a friend who is visiting me on my farm out to do a little shooting if I desired without being compelled to ask him whether or not he has a hunter's license. I think a man should have a little to say about what is done on his own farm."

The bill asking for the repeal was introduced by Mr. Simmons on request and will have the support of a large number of people in the Willamette valley.

Salem, Or., Jan. 16.—No child of 14 years or under can be put in jail, even to await trial, if a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Beach of Multnomah becomes a law. The bill provides that children of 14 years or younger may be committed to the custody of sheriffs or police when there is no other way to keep them.

Cincinnati, Jan. 16.—The Ohio River is 51.9 feet this morning and rising at the rate of two inches an hour. The weather bureau forecasts that 56 feet will be reached by Thursday noon, which stage means the suspension of scores of factories and the abandonment of many schools, houses and depots and the demoralization of rail traffic.

Evansville, Ind. Jan. 16.—The river is near the danger stage and has cut through a new channel above the city. Boats are passing there and the rains continue. Warmer weather and more rain is predicted. The inhabitants are ready to flee tonight. It is feared that the course of the river has permanently changed and that the city will be left dry. The destruction of the water works is threatened.
