For advertisements in this column the rate of 15 cents per line will be charged.

—Hatchet hero February 22nd at First M. E. church.

—Miss Emma Sox spent Sunday in this city, the guest of Miss Nolan.

—John Withycombe, reading clerk of the house at Salem, spent Sunday in Corvallis.

—Senator Johnson came up from Salem Friday evening and returned Monday morning.

—Wm. Nixon, of the Occidental hotel, is just out from a protracted illness. He had a severe attack of pleurisy.

—William Mackay, former sheriff of Benton, attended the remains of his father to Corvallis Monday. Mr. Mackay seemed surprised at the improvements in Corvallis. He is engaged in the hop business near Independence.

—Carpenters and contractors are looking forward to a very busy season in Corvallis. At this early date each knows of 18 to 25 new residences to be erected this coming spring and summer. Already a number of foundations are being laid.

—The college boys and those about town are beginning to lumber up for base ball. The game promises to attract considerable interest here the coming season, as it is known that among both the college and town boys there is much good base ball material.

—For some days past the weather has been all that could be desired for pleasure. If there are any objections to it whatever they come from fruit raisers who may be afraid that possibly these sunny days may advance vegetation to such an extent that it is liable to injury from a brief cold snap. An Oregonian writer remembers that the conditions now and for the past month are similar to those of 1863 at this season, and that the spring was early and followed by abundant crops. If climatic history repeats itself that spring of 1863 ought certainly to be recurring along about now.

—Frank Seits was in town the other day, having come by way of Corvallis on his way home from Toledo, whether he had gone on business with the county court. Mr. Seits secured a contract for building a bridge across Five Rivers, just below its junction with Lobster. A new bridge was well under way at that point last fall, but a sudden rise in the streams swept the incomplete structure away. Parties doing the work then threw up their contract and it has just been relet, as stated, to Mr. Seits.

—Billy Broders is considerably annoyed by the frequent disappearance of an electric lamp which he endeavors to maintain at the rear of his place of business. Because of the secluded location and the consequent small chance of detection, somebody simply steals the lamps. Billy is now keeping a keen lookout for the culprit, and he expects to apprehend him. Readers will kindly defer comment upon the disappearance of lights generally throughout the city and upon the improbability of anybody finding Billy's lamp after nightfall.

—For the past week the electric lights have been worse than ever. When the river was up, it was the report that the lights were bad on that account. When the river went down and the lights continued bad somebody suggested that it was because the river wasn't up. The facts are understood to be that the light people have not power at Albany to serve so many systems. Their water power is over loaded and until they get more or apply steam a satisfactory service is impossible. The lights for the past week have been practically as bad as no lights, for in many an instance in order to read in the same room where the lights were burning there had to be resort to a lamp or candles.

—A pamphlet descriptive of the prizes and terms of the All-Benton School Fair has been issued by Superintendent Denman. It gives full particulars and is being mailed to every family in the county. If any fail to receive it, they can obtain a copy by sending the name and address to the superintendent's office. The campaign for the Fair is not dragging but is being pushed with all vigor, and the event will be the biggest thing of the kind ever held in Benton. It is to continue three days, and the crowd in attendance will be the largest ever gathered together in the county. Among the speakers will be Governor Chamberlain and Senator Fulton.

—A social tea is to be given at Bellfountain on the 22nd, for the benefit of the band.

—Billy Currin was a Westside passenger for Portland yesterday.

—Captain Apperson spent yesterday in this city, auditing college accounts.

—Next Friday night OAC and Roseburg High School girls play basket ball in the Armory.

—Mrs. Washburn of Brownsville, is visiting her father, Caleb Davis, and other relatives.

—Dr. J. R. N. Bell went to Portland Monday on business and to arrange for the shipment of his household goods to Corvallis.

—Miss Myrtle Shonkwiler returned to Portland Sunday after a few days' visit with Corvallis friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. DeVarney accompanied by Mrs. F. G. Irwin of Portland, spent Saturday in Corvallis.

—Bush Davis came up from Portland Saturday evening for a day's visit at home.

—Dr. Lowe, the oculist, is now at Hotel Corvallis to remain until Wednesday night.

—Hon. A. M. Taylor, mayor of Bellfountain, passed through town yesterday, enroute to Pendleton, on a business trip.

—Mrs. Prudence Chipman went to Newport Monday to spend a few days with the family of Mr. Taft and other friends.

—After a prolonged stay in Corvallis with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Jones, Mrs. Bay Rickard and children returned to the farm yesterday. Mr. Rickard has been in ill health.

—The losses so far on farms by reason of the late high water is mainly confined to fences, many of which were carried away by the freshets, and the rebuilding is now in progress. The prevailing weather is favorable for the purpose.

—R. H. Colbert & Son are finishing a number of cases for the new store room of J. M. Nolan & Son. One of them is 3 1-2 by 5 1-2 feet, one 3 by 6 feet and a third is 6 by 14 feet. One has solid sliding doors while the others are to have glass fronts. These cases are manufactured from quarter-sawed oak and are very creditable samples of Colbert & Son's workmanship.

—Miss Ethel Linville left at noon for Baker City, where at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. L. Patterson she will be married to W. H. Weeks, of LaGrande. Very many friends in this city regret her departure, but earnestly wish her bon voyage. Both are former OAC students.

—Mrs. Alex Campbell returned to Siletz Monday after a brief stay at her home in Corvallis. She had been caring for her mother, Mrs. Kisor, since the latter received a stroke of paralysis some weeks ago at Siletz, but was compelled to abandon her post temporarily on account of illness. Mrs. Kisor seems improved at times, but it is believed that she is nevertheless on the decline.

—Work on the Woman's building at the college is seriously delayed by failure of the state to provide funds for the contractor. Two months work during November, December and January are unpaid for and the purchase of material is held back for the lack of money. About half a dozen men are at work under the direction of Contractor Snook, but only slight advance can be made. The situation is embarrassing and is likely to result in the failure to get the building ready for the opening of school next September.

—The legislature is likely to provide for resumption of the $300 household exemption that used to be allowed in assessments. Back in the fifties a law permitting such exemptions was passed, and it remained in effect until repealed a few years ago. Then it was reenacted, but was decided to be unconstitutional. An enabling act is now pending in the legislature for an amendment to the constitution, which if it passes, will be submitted to the people for ratification at the next election. The old law permitted householders an exemption of $300 and was designed to aid heads of families who in the early days of Oregon at least were considered deserving of such a concession for their greater value to the country. If the estimate of their worth has changed since that time it will become evident if the amendment is submitted as now planned. It is worthy of note that E. R. Bryson of this city raised the question and advised the Benton county court of the unconstitutionality of the law before the matter went to the supreme court.

—Dr. Lowe, the optician, now at Hotel Corvallis, has been coming to this city for over 16 years. He leaves Wednesday night.

—Frank Lane and Joseph Patterson are in Eugene and are expected to arrive in Corvallis in a few days.

—Taylor Porter has been afflicted for some time with a form of lagrippe and yesterday consented to have a physician.

—Dr. Lowe, the oculist, is not a spectacle peddler, he does not go from house to house, he merely uses glasses as an adjunct to his business.

For Rheumatic Sufferers.
The quick relief from pain afforded by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm makes it a favorite with sufferers from rheumatism, sciatica, lame back, lumbago, and deep seated and muscular pains. For sale by Graham & Wortham.

—After a ten days' visit with his parents, Elmer Willis returned to Portland yesterday to resume his duties as fireman for the Southern Pacific.

—W. F. Gay and family have arrived from Tipton, Iowa, and are to locate in Corvallis. They are visiting relatives at Shedd's pending the arrival of their household goods.

—Dr. Pernot is having the maple trees about his residence cut down. They are not in a thrifty condition and it is deemed advisable to supplant them with a more ornamental variety.

—An investigation of the O. R. & N. dock at this place since the water went down sufficiently discloses considerable damage to the driveway leading to the lower floor. Much repairing will be necessary before laden vehicles can venture upon the incline.

—Among the changes in business locations to be made this spring is the removal of Small's confectionery and cigar store to the rooms now occupied by the Commercial restaurant. Up to this time there has been no arrangement for a tenant for the Whitehorn rooms now occupied by Mr. Small.

—Among the special taxes levied this spring is one for 10 mills in Bellfountain. The proceeds go to the erection of a school house which it is estimated will cost furnished, $3,000 to $4,000. It is to have three rooms, and will be one of the most pretentious school houses in the county outside of Corvallis and Philomath.

—They say that all signs point to an early spring. The ground hog failed to see his shadow, and there is an early Easter. Two signs that used to be considered a dead shot on a forward spring. Occasional Oregon robins have been seen of late, and this is counted as an indication. The Oregon robin differs from the robin redbreast in that it has brighter colors and wears a black ring around its neck terminating very close to the breast.

—OAC basket ball men administered a decisive defeat to the Friendly team of Eugene, Saturday night. The score was 63 to 6. The game was played in the presence of a large crowd and was only interesting because of the brilliant play of the local players. They are to play a return game with the State University team in the Armory Thursday night. In a game two weeks ago, the OAC men defeated the State University team at Eugene in a score of 44 to 18.

—Statesman: The Oregon Agricultural College experiment station at Corvallis has just issued a most instructive bulletin on the subject of walnut culture in Oregon, the author being C. I. Lewis professor of horticulture at that institution. Professor Lewis came to Oregon early last summer to assume his duties there and made his first appearance before an Oregon assemblage at the mid-summer meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society and cherry fair at Salem in July. He made a most favorable impression then and since has covered the state most thoroughly in his official capacity. He learned that there was need for information concerning the walnut, and he commenced a tour of the walnut growing sections of the state for the purpose of making the industry a study and giving his conclusions to the public. The bulletin is the result of his labor in that respect. It is valuable in many respects, being illustrated with suitable pictures of walnut groves, trees and nuts of different varieties, and also shows different systems of budding and grafting.
