

—June 8 has been named as the date for the final settlement of the estate of H. E. Burns, who was killed in a railroad accident at Los Angeles, last year.

—In the county court: The time for filing report of viewers' on the Summit-Little Elk wagon road has been extended to June 1st. Supervisor Jones has been authorized to purchase a solar compass and necessary levels to cost not to exceed $250. Time for filing report of viewers on road in Fairmount precinct has been extended to June. All bids for completing the road on Digger Mountain were rejected. They were G. A. Haub, $650; C. S. Seely, $530; R. C. & W. W. Oglesby, $499. The county clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for making a fill near the J. M. Currier farm. The petition of Superintendent Denman and Sheriff Burnett for typewriters were denied.

A STEER IN HARNESS.

And a Main Guy in a Plow Team—
What High Priced Horses has Brought Farming to.

Two horses and a lusty steer harnessed together and doing labor as a plow team is an every day scene on a farm in the north end of Benton these days. The steer works in the middle, and according to all accounts performs his part in the ceremony with credit to himself and satisfaction to his owner and equine team mates. The caravan walks right along as though it was not an unusual but an ordinary arrangement and the land rolls over as scientifically and as swiftly ploughed as if the steer was feeding on his native heather and a $400 horse in his place at the plow. His horns look a little strange in a plow team, and his mates must obviously cast a sidelong glance out of the corner of their eyes as they walk on and on meditatively and silently. Other of the unusual is observable in that the harness on the steer, for he does not operate in the old-fashioned yoke, is upside down. The back band is under his body and the belly band over his back. The collar is big end down, and the hames are wrong side up, for a steer does his pulling from above instead of against his breast as a horse does. Otherwise, the rigging is the same for his steership as for the horses. Meantime, the steer is worth $50 while the horse whose place he fills probably went for $300 or $400. The foxy owner is turning an honest penny out of the transaction, and somebody that badly needed a work horse got him for the price. The only questionable thing about the thing is what kind of a matinee would it be if the steer got a horn mixed in one of his team mates' ears.

Boise, Idaho, May 3.—The jury which will try William Haywood, first of the accused in the Seunen-berg case, will keep house during the trial. The law of Idaho provides that such juries shall be kept together and in seclusion from public contact and the higher courts have always insisted on a strict compliance with the provision. Therefore, rather than take any chances with the publicity of a hotel in this case, Sheriff Shad Hodgins, responsible for the custody of the jurors, has hired a house for them. The house, an attractive, well-built structure, standing on a neat lawn and garden, is just across the street that flanks the rear of Ada county court house and within about 500 feet of the courtroom.

To make the daily journeys of the jury as direct as possible, the sheriff has constructed a temporary stairway from the rear of the second story of the court house. Its upper landing is the platform of a fire escape and it is reached through the ante-room of Judge Wood's chambers. The jury can, therefore, be taken directly to the stairway without leaving the railed enclosure of the courtroom.

An official cook has been retained and arrangements have been made with local stores for a good and varied supply of food. Four bailiffs—two for day duty and two for night service—will guard the jury. The house will be carefully and constantly watched. Entry to the open lawn will be prohibited, one of the day bailiffs will remain at home while the jury is in court, and the night bailiffs will do no sleeping during their watch.

The courtroom is being partly reconstructed, in order to increase the seating capacity both in and out-side the rail. Two unusual features of the courtroom are that the jury box occupies the space directly in front of the bench that is generally filled by the clerk and his imposing desk, and the witness chair is in the middle of the chamber, between the ends of counsel tables and directly in front of the middle gate of the rail. The jury faces the room, but its chairs are on swivels that may be swung around to face the judge. The witness chair is on a platform and is visible from all points in the room.

Many extra chairs and tables are being placed on either side of the room within the enclosure for the use of the daily press representatives and a long desk has been built along the outer side of the rail for the special writers and artists. Special seats are being placed for members of the Boise bar and the seating capacity of the public part of the room increased to about 300.

Portland, May 5.—Portland Journal: By an overwhelming majority the democratic voters of Portland have made Harry Lane their nominee for mayor. Nearly 900 democrats went to the polls yesterday afternoon and wrote Lane's name upon the ballot.

The nomination was thrust upon Lane by the insistent demand of his party. It was absolutely unthought. His name was not upon the ballot; he had explicitly refused to be a candidate, and he was without organized support of any character.

Two years ago, when Lane was the regular democratic nominee and when his name was printed on the ballot he received in the primaries 698 votes. Yesterday 887 democrats went to the polls and wrote Lane's name on their ballots as their choice for mayor. George H. Thomas, his competitor, was snowed under, receiving only 499.

In some precincts Lane's vote was four, five and even six times that cast for Thomas. In precinct 51, where Thomas lives, the vote was 22 for Lane and 7 for Thomas. In precinct 46 Lane received 24 votes, while Thomas had but 2.

Boise, Idaho, May 4.—Owen Barnes, formerly of Victor, Colo., now of Goldfield, arrived in the city today. He is a member of the Western Federation of Miners and was prominent in that organization during the Cripple Creek troubles. It is reported that he is to be a witness for the defense in the Moyer-Haywood trials. He spent much of the time today in visiting Mrs. Haywood.

Several socialists are now in Boise, who have been sent from various places to sit as a socialist jury in the trial to report the proceedings to their home organization.

George H. Shoaf, representing the Appeal to Reason, who has been in correspondence with Eugene V. Debs, was asked today if the latter still intended to visit Idaho to attend the trial of Haywood. He replied:

"He has made no change in his previous plans, to my knowledge. I believe he will show up here next week."

"Do you think Debs would come out here, after being advised by one of the leading attorneys for the defense to stay away if he had the interests of the defendants at heart?" was asked. Shoaf replied:

"Debs is not the sort of man to be dictated to by an attorney like E. F. Richardson or any other attorney. Debs has a mind of his own and will probably do as he himself thinks best."

This was in reference to the fact that leaked out some time ago that Mr. Richardson had made such representation to Debs. The latter had indicated to friends in the East that he would not come, although he had said frequently he would come and bring an army.
