Gardeners can swap seeds
White Clover Grange holds exchange

NEHALEM — Give Seeds a Chance: Second Annual Seed Exchange will take place from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 7 at the White Clover Grange, located at 36585 Oregon Highway 53. The event is free and open to the public.

This event is an opportunity for gardeners and visitors to swap herb, vegetable, flower and native plant seeds, and exchange information. In addition, there will be a seed cleaning demonstration at 1 p.m., and at 1:30 p.m.

and Joel Caris of Food Roots will host a discussion about the role local gardeners have to play in their community's resilience and security. Screens for cleaning seeds will also be available.

Everyone is invited to bring seeds they have collected or extra commercially packaged seeds they no longer want. Place collected seeds in small envelopes or zip-sealed bags, and mark the seed packet with as much information as possible, including plant, variety, area grown, production qualities, etc. Small brown "coin" envelopes can be purchased at Salt & Paper in Manzanita, or use a standard mailing envelope, seal it and cut it in half (fold the top over and seal after filling.) There will be empty coin-size envelopes available at the event, but quantity is limited on a first-come, first-serve basis.

New gardeners and those without seeds to share are welcome to take seeds for getting started with the request to pay it forward, if possible, and share some of their bounty with others. All seeds are free.

Seeds that are several years old ideally should be tested for viability. If collectors are not sure if a batch of seeds is still good, take a sampling (about 10) and place between two moist paper towels in a warm place to see if they germinate. If half or more sprout they are good to go!

White Clover Grange and Fulcrum Community Resources are sponsors for Give Seeds a Chance: Second Annual Seed Exchange. For more information about the event, call 503-368-6874, or visit any one of these websites: www.whiteclovergrange.com, www.fulcrumresources.com or www.redspiralhand.com
