

POINT of view

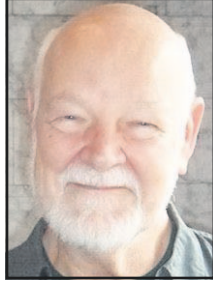

'How do you feel about the Port of Astoria wanting to close the boatyard?'
(This question was asked before Tuesday's Port meeting)

Christi Payne, Astoria
"I'm against it. The boatyard is vital."

Mary Tanguay Webb, Astoria
"No. We love the boatyard. We like to walk over there. It's historic."

Roger Rocka, Astoria
"I think it's a terrible idea. And I think we have too many commissioners with a singular interest, instead of thinking about the whole port, and whole community."

Josh Marquis, Astoria
"I think it's a terrible idea. Ships and boat maintenance are a core of the community."

Jeff Jacobson, Astoria
"No. People need a place to work on their boats so they can be a vital part of the community and contribute to the local economy."

Portion of Commercial Street closed through Wednesday

Commercial Street between Fourth and Fifth Street in Astoria will be closed through Wednesday afternoon, according to the Astoria Police Department.

The road closure is due to a small landslide in the area. The minor slide has not covered the roadway, but is threatening the area, police said.

A local geologist inspected the site Monday. Police are waiting for the geologist's report before reopening the roadway.

The cause is unknown, but likely due to the recent heavy rain and winds over the weekend.

The roadway is currently blocked off with cones.

"There is a hillside adjacent to the roadway and a tree or dirt could move into the roadway," Police Chief Brad Johnston said.

Clatsop Behavioral Healthcare to serve Seaside students

SEASIDE — The Seaside School District, in partnership with Clatsop Behavioral Healthcare, is giving children the opportunity to have their behavioral health needs met directly at school.

At Tuesday's meeting, the Seaside School Board of Directors voted unanimously to approve a memorandum of understanding with Clatsop Behavioral Healthcare that will allow the organization to provide its services in Seaside schools. Doing so will mitigate the need for parents and students to travel to Astoria to receive those services, Superintendent Doug Dougherty said.

The county agency has offered this opportunity to all the school districts, some of which also have established an agreement, such as the Astoria School District and the Knappa School District, Dougherty said.

The reason for the effort, he said, is so "parents and students will be able to access those services directly within our school district."

A counselor from Clatsop Behavioral Healthcare, or several, will have a presence at each of the Seaside schools on various weekdays to have appointments with students. The schedule is to be determined, Dougherty said. The collaboration will not cost the school district anything.

When the services will start being offered also is to be determined, Dougherty said.

Director of Special Services Elizabeth Friedman said she is eager for the program to begin. About 40 students in the school district are existing clients of Clatsop Behavioral Healthcare. Those students will benefit greatly from being able to access their care right at their schools, she said.

In other news:

- The board voted unanimously to approve a recommendation from the Building and Grounds Committee to declare an emergency and allow the district to pursue having a roof replaced on Gearhart Elementary School's portable classroom. The roof was blown off during a storm over the weekend.
- The board unanimously approved a motion to accept cultural exchange students through a new organization, CCI Greenheart. Board member Hugh Stelson said CCI Greenheart seems to be "the kind of organization the board should endorse."
- Seaside High School juniors and seniors will attend a student-centered job fair being put on by Clatsop Economic Development Resources. The job fair is scheduled for April 15 at the Clatsop County Fairgrounds.

OBITUARIES

William H. Johnson Jr. Carnation, Wash.

May 10, 1955 — March 16, 2015

Bill was born May 10, 1955 in Seattle, Wash., to William Howard Johnson Sr. and Mabel Ida Broback. He passed away peacefully on March 16, 2015, at 12:05 p.m. at his home in Carnation.

Bill married Christine Elizabeth Carner on June 16, 1979, in Astoria, Ore. He had been a commercial fisherman on and off in the Astoria area for the previous 10 years. He captained the 36-foot fishing boat named Tiburon, with Christine being his boat puller.

In 1980 they moved to Seattle, where he became a stevedore longshoreman and later a crane operator. He was with ILWU Local 19 for over 30 years. In 1987 they built a log house in the Carnation, Wash., area where he remained until his death.

Bill loved golfing, traveling, and fishing. He was a huge Seahawks and Mariners fan, but watching golf and the travel station were right up there. He will be remembered by his family and friends for his great sense of humor, generosity almost to a fault, and for being a fun loving, life of the party kind of guy. Oh, and we won't forget his Swedish and Norwegian heritage that gave him his stubborn, ornery streak. But that was just another thing to love about him. We will deeply miss him.

Although they were not fortunate enough to be blessed with their own children, he had one special neighbor kid, Russell, whom he taught to ski, took to his first baseball game and let him assist in building the house by providing Russell with rounds of wood to pound nails into.

Bill was preceded in death by his parents and grandparents. He is survived by his wife; two sisters, Connie (John) Hope and Carrie M. Zacher; and one brother, James N. (Laurine) Bowerman; numerous nieces and nephews; six great-nieces and nephews; and many cousins, aunts and uncles.

A memorial service is at 2 p.m. Friday, March 20, 2015, at Flintoft's Funeral Home, 540 E. Sunset Way, Issaquah, WA 98027. Friends are invited to view photos, get directions and share memories in the family's online guest book at www.flintofts.com
