

Come to a barn raising

Carriage museum celebrates expansion

RAYMOND, Wash. — Did you notice the construction going on at the Northwest Carriage Museum during the past eight months? Well, the building expansion is done, and it's time to have some fun — come to a Barn Raising grand opening from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday April 25 at the museum.

The Northwest Carriage Museum has added an additional 3,600 square feet of display space and lots of unique horse-drawn vehicles and equipment.

In addition to touring the facility, visitors can listen to the music of Jackie Mitchell and Sean Sturgill and enjoy tasty appetizers. Beer and wine will be available for purchase.

The Northwest Carriage Museum opened in 2002 and displays 19th century horse-drawn vehicles, an 1890 schoolhouse, a blacksmith shop, period clothing and artifacts and a gift shop.

Tickets are available at the museum and are moving fast. The museum is located at 314 Alder St. Call 360-942-4150 or visit www.nwcarriagemuseum.org for more information. Tickets cost $5 for members and $10 for nonmembers and will be available at the door on a first-come-first-served basis.
