Sing to Feed hosts fundraiser May 15

SEASIDE — Sing to Feed is a fundraising project with the sole mission to raise money, food and outreach for those in need through music and song. The brainchild of Redwood Son's Josh Malm, Sing to Feed is able to bring together musicians and businesses, organizations and the public with benefit concerts partnered with local charities. The project has been in operation since 2011.

Malm's youngest sister, Hayliehe Bell, who is Miss North Coast Outstanding Teen 2015, adopted the Sing to Feed Project for her platform service work in accordance with the Miss America Organization guidelines and the mantra of "Service, Style, Scholarship and Success, the Four Points of the Crown."

"Now I can take my passion for music and singing, my love of my family and my desire to give to those less fortunate and have it all under one umbrella," Bell says. "Sing to Feed has successfully completed three years of events, and I am excited to now bring it to the North Coast and be able to be actively involved in all aspects of this organization."

Sing to Feed will host a benefit concert for the food banks and pantries on the North Coast at 5 p.m. Friday, May 15 at the Seaside American Legion, located at 1315 Broadway. The food banks include the South Clatsop County Food Bank, Cannon Beach Food Pantry, St. Vincent de Paul Food Pantry, Manna House, Clatsop Emergency Food Bank, Warrenton Food Bank, Knappa Food Bank, and Grace Food Pantry.

Live music will be provided by Redwood Son, Tim Snider, Laura Ivancie, Krista Herring, Tasha Romero, the Gabby Holt Duo, Jarred Bepistis, Miss Clatsop County Alexis Mather, students from the Astoria Conservatory of Music, and the Sing to Feed North Coast Choir.

Tickets are $15 in advance or $17 at the door, which includes dinner. All ages are welcome. Canned food, blankets, gloves, warm clothing and other items will be accepted in addition to the admission charges. Advanced tickets are available online at brownpapertickets.com

Lewis and Clark National Park offers two July camps

ASTORIA — There's still time to get outdoors and have fun this summer with Lewis and Clark National Historical Park camps. Kids can explore trails, water and animals at one of two week-long camps held in July.

Nature Survival Camp, July 15 to 19, takes campers on the water and to the woods, deep into the park and other sites, as they explore and practice skills to survive and thrive in nature, including a two-night camping trip at the beach. This camp is open to students entering seventh and eighth grades. The cost is $145.

Nature Adventure Camp, held July 22 to 26, offers a week's worth of adventures at the park and nearby, as well as an overnight stay in Fort Clatsop. This Camp is open to students entering fourth through sixth grades. The cost is $135.

Hours for Nature Survival Camp are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, with a 9 a.m. drop-off on Wednesday and 11 a.m. pick up on Friday for the beach camping trip.

Hours for Nature Adventure Camp are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. For the Thursday overnight, drop off is at 9 a.m. Thursday and pickup is 11 a.m. Friday.

There are openings and scholarship assistance available for these two camps.

Calling all cheese lovers

Sign up for cheese making workshop

CANNON BEACH — Introduction to Cheese and Cheese Making Workshop, a one day event, will be held at the Cannon Beach Chamber Community Hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 30.

The workshop includes a cheese tasting of the seven major cheese families and a hands-on session where participants work in pairs to convert milk to cheese. Other sessions focus on the history and categorization of cheese and learning about the key steps of the cheese making process.

The class will be taught by Marc Bates, a.k.a "Cheeseguy." He has 45 years of experience in the industry. He managed the Washington State University Creamery, made Cougar Gold cheese, and more recently managed the Oregon State University Creamery, where he assisted with the development of Beaver Classic cheese.

Bates has taught numerous cheese making shortcourses in Washington, Idaho, Oregon and California. He has served as an official judge for the U.S. Cheese Championship and World Cheese championships hosted by the Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association and also at competitions of the American Cheese Society and American Dairy Goat Association.

The intended audience is high school through adults who want to expand their love of cheese. The cost of the workshop, including samples and materials, is $85 per person. Lunch is on your own.

Tickets to the event are advance purchase only through Eventbrite at <https://eventbrite.com/event/16132150697/>

Full refunds will be given for cancellation prior to May 15. Planning and supply purchasing requires a $25 cancellation fee after May 15. Transferring your ticket to another is welcome up to the start of the event.

If you have questions about the workshop, email cheeseguy@charter.net or call Bates at 509-595-8652.
