Founded in March 1811 by Captain Jonathan Thorn, Astoria was the Pacific Fur Company's primary trading post in the Northwest. Under temporary British authority during the War of 1812, Astoria was renamed Fort George after King George III. In 1924 the Fort George Building was erected on the original settlement site of Fort Astoria, operating as an automotive repair shop until the 1990's. Briefly abandoned and sadly neglected, the Fort George Building has been revitalized and is now home to the Blue Scorchers Bakery and Fort George Brewery.
