Sometimes the best camera is the one you have with you.

As a person living in the digital age, that camera is often my smartphone. So over the past six months I have lived on the North Coast I have occasionally left my work cameras at home and hit the road with my phone.

Photographing with a cellphone forces a photographer to slow down, get closer, and focus on the moments.

A phone is also far less intrusive to people and animals, and draws far fewer looks than carrying around multiple camera bodies.

These photos were all taken with the iPhone app Hipstamatic, a camera app that attempts to emulate different types of old film.
