Imogen Gallery will host an afternoon trunk show Aug. 1 featuring jewelry by Robbie and Chantay Curnow.

Imogen Gallery presents jewelry trunk show Aug. 1

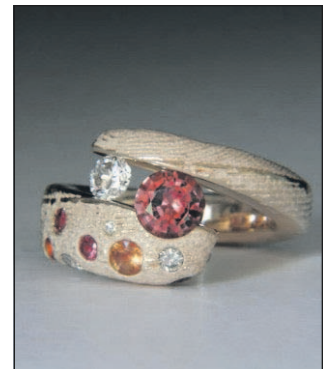

ASTORIA — Jewels Curnow, a team of two, Robbie and Chantay Curnow, will be at Imogen Gallery for a return visit bringing with them their one-of-a-kind art jewelry pieces.

All are invited to attend their trunk show from 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 1 and enjoy a champagne reception while learning from these master jewelers what is involved with the creation of each piece.

The Curnows are known for using innovative setting and casting techniques, creating a distinct look. Many of their designs incorporate a primitive style of casting that uses cuttlefish bone, which creates texture and original pieces.

Robbie Curnow also custom blends many of his own alloys and hand selects all of the gemstones used. The randomly set sapphires, diamonds and rubies embellish each piece in a rugged yet sophisticated composition, appearing to be created from some kind of geological event such as the force of glacial compression.

The natural and organic sense of design is something that comes from a calculated consideration of geometry and proportions occurring in nature, as well as years of
