The Department of Labor opened the nation's third Job Corps Center on February 2, 1965 at the former Tongue Point Naval Station in Astoria. Since that time, more than 30,000 young adults from throughout the country have attended Tongue Point Job Corps Center (TPJCC) as they trained for careers, earned academic credentials and learned skills to be employable. They are the workers and taxpayers of today and of the future.

As an employer, TPJCC has provided more than 150 family wage jobs each year. TPJCC's presence in Clatsop County has enriched the diversity of the region and provided an economic benefit in excess of $10M per year.

RICKENBACH
CONSTRUCTION
INCORPORATED

Rickenbach Construction was started by John Rickenbach in Astoria in 1965.

For the past 50 years, Rickenbach Construction has worked to become one of the Pacific North Coast's foremost commercial general contractors including restoration, historical renovation, design/build, seismic, structural and other upgrades, custom commercial and residential construction.

Rickenbach Construction will effectively meet the challenge of keeping historical authenticity, assuring weather protection and structural stability, and maximizing the changing functionality of buildings in our community.

We have completed projects in three Northwest Oregon Counties and Southwest Washington including numerous new buildings, additions, remodels and restorations.

As a family-owned business, Jared Rickenbach, president; Michelle Dieffenbach, architect; along with John and Diane Rickenbach, have established the company's reputation for honesty, dependability, teamwork, problem solving, quality craftsmanship, schedule and project management.

Rickenbach Construction, Inc., is committed to building your trust first.
