PHOG BOUNDER'S ANTIQUE MALL, owned by Tom and Debbie Schmidt, is located in the first building finished after the fire of 1922 at 892 Marine Drive, Astoria. The Morning Astorian, a newspaper, was the first business to operate in the building from 1923-1930. The Daily Messenger, also a newspaper, occupied the building from 1931-1933. The Astoria Egg & Poultry, and Maki Feed & Supply Company occupied the building from 1935-1946. In 1947 Sorenson's Auto Parts moved in until 1977, when Lon's New and Used Furniture took over until 2006. In 2006 Tom and Debbie purchased the building and moved Phog Bounder's Antique Mall from Commercial Street to their current location.

For Tom and Debbie, it is the perfect building and location for their business. The ambiance and historic feel enhances the merchandise their 50+ vendors supply for sale within both floors of the building.
