

Coast Community Radio celebrates National Radio Day, Lemonade Day

ASTORIA — Coast Community Radio will celebrate National Radio Day on Thursday, Aug. 20. This event honors radio broadcasts in the United States. WWJ in Detroit, Michigan, was the first radio station in the world to broadcast regularly scheduled programs starting Aug. 20, 1920. It is not an official national holiday, but everyone is encouraged to participate and appreciate the importance of radio.

The invention of the radio dates back to the late 1800s. One person cannot be credited with this innovation. To make the radio a reality, it required a number of different inventions and discoveries including both transmission and reception methods as well as technology.

To celebrate National Radio Day, listen to your favorite radio station and give a special recognition to your local radio personalities.

Radio Day is not the only national celebration of the day: Aug. 20 is also National Lemonade Day.

Join Coast Community Radio at the station, located at 14th and Exchange streets from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 20 for a dose of radio and a tall glass of lemonade.

“What could be better on a summer day than your favorite radio programs and an ice cold glass of lemonade?” asks Susan Boac, development director at Coast Community Radio.

Coast Community Radio broadcasts along the Oregon and southwest Washington coast. Listen at KMUN 91.9 FM Astoria, KTCB 89.5 FM Tillamook, KCPB 90.9 FM Warrenton, streaming on the website coastradio.org and from your mobile device on the TuneIn app.

Artists invited apply for CBAA grant

Grant is open to visual artists, writers, performers, musicians

CANNON BEACH — Cannon Beach Arts Association announces its annual Individual Artist Grant for 2015-16. The grant amount is $4,000 and will be awarded to a local artist working in fine art, film media, craft, literary endeavors, music or theater to provide the support necessary to expand the artist's creative process.

The Individual Artist Grant also intends to encourage a wider art audience and quality art experiences within the community. The artist must provide a return to the community through a temporary exhibit, performance, community education, publication or other means as specified in the proposal.

Application is open to visual artists, writers, performers and musicians showing serious intent and working to produce original material.

Artists must be part of the Cannon Beach community, producing or actively exhibiting or performing within the city, or they must document short-term residence for the duration of the project proposed. Note that the Cannon Beach community includes Cannon Beach, Tolovana Park and Arch Cape. Part-time residents of Cannon Beach are also encouraged to apply.

For complete application and a list of past recipients, stop at the Cannon Beach Art Association Gallery or visit www.cannonbeacharts.org. For questions, call 503-436-0744 or email cannonbeacharts@gmail.com

An informational session will be held at 6 p.m. Sept. 3 at the Cannon Beach Gallery. Applicants are invited to attend, ask questions and learn more about the grant program and history.

The submission date for proposals is Oct. 1. The award date for the grant is Nov. 1.

Muttzanita festival to hold canine mayoral election

MANZANITA — Taking a spin on the city's name, hundreds of dog lovers will gather in Manzanita this Sept. 11 and 12 for the seventh annual Muttzanita festival.

The festival and the “Town of Muttzanita” is growing.

Appropriately, this year the canine celebration is launching its first “mayoral election.”

No party affiliation is necessary; however, all candidates must be a full or part-time resident of the tri-city area of Manzanita, Nehalem and Wheeler.

Pick up your nomination form at Four Paws on the Beach, located at 144 Lane-da Ave. Polls open Saturday, Aug. 15 at various “voting” areas around town.

For more information, email muttzanita2015@gmail.com, visit www.muttzanita.com or call Ethel Stratton at 541-408-7784.

Lace and Lead play Big O

OLNEY — Portland country music duo Lace and Lead will perform at the Big O Saloon at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 19. The saloon is located at 89523 Oregon Highway 202. There is no cover, and the show is 21 and over.

Emi Tanke and Trysh Hill of Lace and Lead met back in September of 2012 when they were both playing separately at a dive bar in Portland on the same night. They met up about a month later to jam and have been playing together since.

Different musical backgrounds have influenced their sound. To them, country music is more about the stories behind the songs than fitting into a certain mold of what country music is supposed to sound like.

Life happens, and there always seems to be something new to write a song about. The inspiration behind their music comes from the kind of songs you put on repeat over and over again. Writing clever songs that resonate with people while coming up with new ways to approach popular topics is their biggest feat.

Their motivation comes from picturing their songs being influential in the lives of others. Music can be a voice for people who don't know how to express what they're feeling. It's changed their lives, and they want to create songs that sustain over time.
