

Cleanline Surf Shop celebrates 35th birthday

By KATHERINE LACAZE

SEASIDE — The parking lot at Cleanline Surf Shop was transformed by a festive atmosphere Thursday for the company's 35th birthday celebration.

Featuring food, music, an in-store sale, games and giveaways, the daylong bash celebrated the community that has kept the business thriving since owner Josh Gizdavich opened it in 1980.

Compelled by the love of surfing and the need for equipment, which was difficult to obtain at the time, longtime local surfer Gizdavich established Cleanline Surf Shop to support the activity. He added a site in Cannon Beach in the mid-1990s to give more people access to the equipment they need.

As for his clientele, he said, "it's really 50/50" between local enthusiasts and tourists.

"It's visitors all summer long and the locals for the other eight months," he said.

For most of its existence, the shop was located in "a hole in the wall" farther down on First Avenue, Gizdavich said. It moved to its current building on the corner of First Avenue and Roosevelt Drive five years ago. At that time, he said, with the increased visibility, business picked up substantially.

Because of the support he's received, Gizdavich wanted to say thank-you in a community-oriented way by hosting a public party.

Starting at noon, a portion of the parking lot outside the business was closed off to party attendees. Several vendor booths were set up for companies whose products are sold at Cleanline, such as O'Neill, HippyTree, Billabong, Quiksilver, Lib Technologies, RVCA and OluKai. The Surfrider Foundation, a collection of activists and members working toward sustaining the quality of life and environment in Oregon, also had an informational booth set up.

Cleanline Surf Shop threw a party to celebrate 35 years in business.

Live music was provided throughout the afternoon by the Beerman Creek String Band, a North Coast institution; Samsel and the Skirt, of Portland; and the Retroactive Gamma Rays, of Lincoln City.

The shop provided grilled hamburgers and hot dogs and other treats.

success," Gizdavich said. "It didn't rain. Everyone got fed."

Additionally, he said, he got to see a number of friends he hadn't in a while, celebrate the tight-knit surf community and say "thank you to all of our patrons."
