E. Oregon blaze tops 80 square miles

Associated Press

PORTLAND — A wildfire that destroyed three dozen homes in Eastern Oregon has expanded to 84 square miles and more people have been told to evacuate.

But after a week of burning out of control, the Canyon Creek Complex fire south of John Day is now 10 percent contained. Officials say northwest winds Thursday afternoon may increase fire activity and more people have been ordered to evacuate.

A community meeting is scheduled for 5 p.m. at Grant Union High School's old gym.

Lightning started the fire Aug. 12. Though home-threatening wildfires are a fact of life each summer, no Oregon wildfire since the Great Depression has destroyed more houses.

Another 10 major wildfires are raging in Oregon, and Gov. Kate Brown is deploying National Guard troops to help.

AHS Discount "Gold

Cards" will be on sale at the concession stand. A "Drive 1 4 UR School" day is scheduled for Saturday at Astoria Ford. The event begins at 8:30 a.m. For every test drive, $25 will be donated to AHS Athletics.

Mildew control hints at Sunday Market

The Daily Astorian

"Powdery Mildew Control" is the special topic at the Clatsop County Master Gardeners booth at the Astoria Sunday Market on Sunday, where prevention and control methods will be discussed.

Free handouts with detailed information will also be available.

Powdery mildew often covers ornamental and vegetable plants in late summer and fall. Powdery mildew disease first appears as whitish spots forming on leaves, and may gradually make leaves turn completely yellow, twist and fall off.

Master Gardeners are present at every Astoria Sunday Market to assist home gardeners with solutions to garden problems. Gardeners are encouraged to bring samples of plant material and photos.
