

Cottage & Garden Tour set for September

Tickets on sale now for luncheon, tour, celebration, tea

CANNON BEACH — Attention history hounds, architecture enthusiasts and the coastally curious: It's almost time to put on your walking shoes to take a tour through Cannon Beach's homes and gardens. Support the city's only history museum, and join the tour that Sunset Magazine calls the "best autumn event" in Cannon Beach: the Cannon Beach Cottage & Garden Tour.

For the past 11 years, the Cannon Beach History Center & Museum has opened the doors to more than 100 grand beach homes, vintage cottages and historic bungalows of Cannon Beach. Many of these homes have been featured in Oregon Home Magazine, the Oregonian, and Our Coast magazine.

The tour gives attendees the opportunity to see the work of artists, private collectors and designers.

The tour begins at noon Saturday, Sept. 12 with a luncheon and lecture at the Tolovana Inn, located at 3400 S. Hemlock St. The luncheon will be prepared by local caterer extraordinaire Culinary Capers. A round-table discussion with five intrepid women of Cannon Beach will explore the history and stories of the city. Tickets for the luncheon and lecture are $25. It has sold out in the past, so purchasing tickets in advance is encouraged.

After the luncheon, attendees are invited to begin the self-guided home and garden tour at 1 p.m. There will be selection of dream homes, cozy cottages, historic splendors, beachy cottages, and well-manicured gardens in the neighborhood around First Street and the Presi-for Making Beer, Wine, Grut, Cider, Perry, and More," will give the presentation "Life Beyond the Two-Season Garden Party." Annual plants come and go, and we love their short-term bursts of color. Yet here in the Northwest, perennials, shrubs and trees can throw a party in the garden for more than two seasons. Toss in a few bulbs, and a pinch of design tips, and you have a recipe for a luscious garden. Teashon will present the true stars of the Northwest garden. Tickets to this event are $20.

Tickets for each event are available to purchase separately. Luncheon and lecture tickets are $25, Home & Garden Tour tickets are $30, and Garden Tea tickets are $20. A weekend event package is $60. The proceeds of this event allow the Cannon Beach History Center & Museum to continue operating as a donation-based museum. It also allows the museum to continue offering a free lecture series and field trip program, as well as a seasonal acoustic series. Tickets will be available through the museum's online gift shop at www.cbhistory.org or by phone at 503-436-9301.
