

One of the nice things about Fort George is that every time you go there you find a new offering of some sort. It might be a band from Portland or a Festival of the Dark Arts. Or a beer made with coffee (Coffee Girl), or with various kinds of vegetation (pumpkin, marionberries, raspberries, spruce buds, etc.). And how could you not try beers with names like Java the Hop (coffee IPA), Murky Pearl (stout made with Willapa Bay oysters), or XVlth Chapel (double fermented Belgian yeast IPA)?

The folks at Fort George believe that the best beer is local, and despite the brewery's rapid growth the pub remains a down-home neighborhood pub, a local. It's a place where you can enjoy good beer accompanied by house-made sausage or pan-seared oysters. Bring a friend, or several, and your dog is also welcome.

Visit their web site: fortgeorgebrewery.com. You can listen to the catchy Fort George theme song on the home page (Beer, beer, beer, beer, let's go get some Fort George Beer. Beer, beer, beer, beer, Fort George, Fort George Beer, ad infinitum). You can even download it as a ringtone.
