The revolution has come to Astoria. The Rogue revolution, that is, and it has landed at one of Astoria's most striking locations, Pier 39. That's where the local headquarters sustains the revolution with an extensive menu and some excellent beer.

The revolution started with an idea a few friends had to start a brewpub. That was in Ashland back in 1987, and by 1988 their beer revolution was underway, with a small pub that had a brewery in the basement. The revolution didn't really get rolling, though, until it came to the Oregon coast.
