

Seaside

FIRST SATURDAY

ART WALK

OCT.
3
5 to 7 p.m.

SEASIDE — The Seaside First Saturday Art Walk, celebrating 11 years in 2015, is all about the arts. Visitors walk about, meet artists, sip wine or snag appetizers, view artist demonstrations, listen to an artist talk or enjoy live performances in music. The next art walk is set from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 3 at galleries in the historic Gilbert District of downtown Seaside.

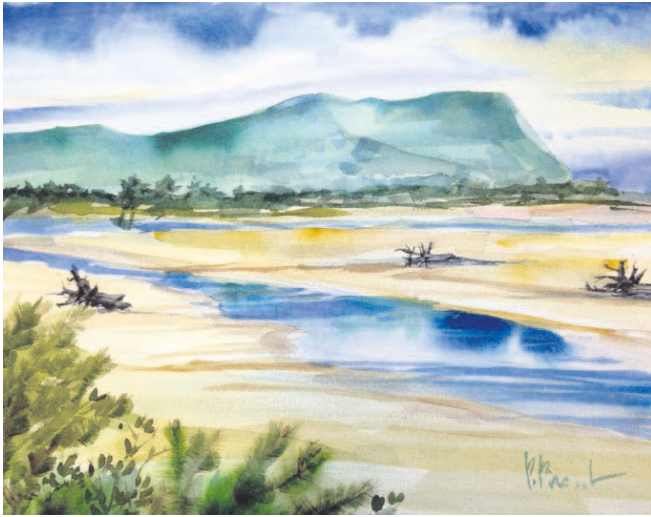

"Party Girl 5" by Jorjett Strumme at Beach Books.

Fairweather House and Gallery

612 Broadway

Fairweather's opens "Fall Retreat," a exhibition that brings together seasonal art from regional artists Jo Pomeroy-Crockett, Bev Drew Kindley and Nick Brakel. Pomeroy-Crockett's work includes unusual painting supports such as yupo, a paper made from recycled products, challenging glass-like surfaces and birch bark. In a series of collagraphs, Brakel explores concern about water birds and sea mammals that may be affected by climate change. Kindley has painted en plein air, working outdoors in the changing season, and has captured the autumn light beautifully in her work.

"Tillamook Head at the Necanicum Estuary" by Paul Brent at Fairweather's.

Also see work by two new artists: lifelong North Coast resident and landscape photographer Linda Fenton-Mendhall and collage artist Sherrie Stahl. At 6 p.m., Seaside nature photographer Neal Maine will offer a natural history lecture about the season and reveal his latest fall journal of images. Throughout the evening, pat-time Seaside artist Paul Brent will be Painting Seaside LIVE, a watercolor demo. Light snacks, wine tasting and door prizes will be offered.

Hollywood came true; she worked on several television series such as "Dynasty" and "Love Boat" and was Elizabeth Taylor's personal assistant and stylist for 10 years. The Golden Age of Hollywood is still a source of inspiration for the artist and designer. "I was so lucky to be in the right place at the right time," Strumme says. "People ask me so often, 'How did you get from Seaside, Oregon to Hollywood, California?' I had a lot of guts, a lot of determination and a lot of good luck." In 2009, Strumme was inducted into the Seaside High School Hall of Fame for both her student and career achievements.

A mask by Jorjett Strumme at Beach Books.

SunRose Gallery

606 Broadway

SunRose will have new art from gallery artists Charlotte Bruhn, Ronnie Harris and Charity Stewart. Rounding out the event will be autumn treats and live music by Richard T.

Beach Books

616 Broadway

Seaside native Jorjett Strumme will exhibit her works "Costume Art 2.0." Life for Strumme has been an adventure echoing those on the big screen of old Hollywood. Her dream of designing glamorous fashion for the legends of

Seaside Coffee House

3 N. Holladay Drive

Oftentimes, acting as a welcoming space where art enthusiasts gather, interact and collectively review the art walk experience, Seaside Coffee House features art by Morgan Stoller, whose pen and ink work is demonstrated through dramatic, subtle contrasts of light and shadows.

T. Anjuli's Gallery

5 N. Holladay Drive

T. Anjuli's features artists/gallery owners Lisa Scigliano and Billy Lutz. For October, "Leafraker," an oil on canvas, is featured. "He is immersed in ideals of windblown fates and felicity. The open air theater prods him to reconsider himself, his importance and his insignificance to the ever-changing whole. In presence he tends his garden by raking the leaves from his path," writes Lutz.

SUBMITTED PHOTOS

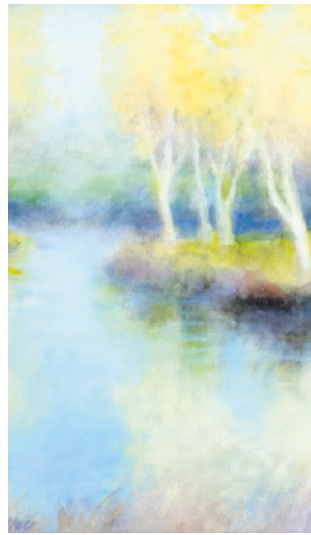

"Beachside" by Ronnie Harris at SunRose Gallery.

"Leaf Raker" by Billy Lutz at T'Anjuli's.

"Seaside Clamtime" by Linda Fenton-Mendhall at Fairweather's.

"Autumn Pond" by Bev Drew Kindley at Fairweather's.

Submitted photo

Teachers are invited to an open house at the Columbia River Maritime Museum Oct. 2.

Museum holds open house for local teachers Friday

ASTORIA — The Columbia River Maritime Museum had a busy summer developing new school programs and making improvements on old favorites.

The museum will host an open house from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 2 for teachers to share these new school programs. The event will take place in the Ford Room.

Attendees can explore the museum, meet with education staff, investigate the new Traveling Trunks, discover new on-site programs, browse the redesigned museum website, and enjoy light refreshments courtesy of Baked Alaska.

This event is designed for teachers and education colleagues.

Submitted photo

A painting by Shirley Dahlsten, who will teach a new 10-week class at Trail's End.

Sign up for painting class

Shirley Dahlsten teaches classical style

GEARHART — Shirley Dahlsten will teach a new 10-week painting class called "Classical and Futuristic" starting Thursday, Oct. 8.

Class will take place 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursdays at Trail's End Art Association. Cost is $65, one-third of which will go to TEAA's rebuilding fund.

Basic and advanced painting will be combined. Oil, pastel, watercolor, acrylic and collage will be included. The ability to work independently is required.

For more information, call 503-325-1514.