Astoria

May 12, 1958 — Nov. 4, 2015

Terry Lee Waring died in Astoria on Nov. 4, 2015, at the age of 57. He is survived by his loving wife Denise René Waring of Astoria, son Jason Carl Waring and granddaughter Natalia Waring of Warrenton, and daughter Robin Walls and her three children of Arizona. CLARIFICATION

Revenue in question — Tracy LaBarge, owner of Tracy's King Crab Shack in Juneau, Alaska, said the amount of summer revenue at her business quoted by Cliff Fick, an adviser for the Astoria Riverwalk Inn's operators, at a Nov. 3 Port Commission meeting was incorrect. Fick's summer revenue estimate was mentioned in a 1A story Wednesday. LaBarge declined to provide The Daily Astorian a summer revenue figure.

Astoria Police seek information, witnesses in possible stabbing

Astoria Police responded to the Columbia Memorial Hospital emergency room Saturday to a report of a patient who appeared to have been stabbed.

Christopher Peterson, 27, of Warrenton, was treated for a laceration to his neck, consistent with being stabbed with a jagged object, police said.

Peterson did not share how or where the injury occurred. He did say he was at an Astoria bar, but did not recall what happened between there and his mother's house, where he arrived several hours later. There were several indications that Peterson had been involved in an altercation, police said.

Police are seeking anyone who witnessed an altercation or has any information about what occurred.

Peterson is white, about 6'5", 227 pounds, with blue eyes and short light brown hair that is thinning on top. He had a couple of days growth of facial hair and has visible tattoos on his left forearm.

Anyone with information is encouraged to contact Officer Andrew Randall at 503-325-4411 or arandall@astoria.or.us.
