The current group includes Helvi Smith, Jeff Hall, Lisa Griffen, Penny Forrester, Elina Zebergs, Jim Zaleski, Bruce Ulrich, Anne Brown and Christine Martell. Additionally, author Bonnie Henderson will discuss and sign her newest book, a revised edition of her "Day Hiking the Oregon Coast."

Seaside Coffee House

An original oil painting by local artist Michael Muldoon will be featured. Also learn the back stories of Seaside art walk hostesses: Kay Kjemhus, Kathy Ferris, Joan Smith and Kathy Bowman will share their stories in creative writing about having an Australian Outback travel adventure, tending a garden that garnered a magazine article, and doing good works for local children and in Africa. At 6 p.m., local nature photographer Neal Maine will speak

T. Anjuli's Gallery

5 N. Holladay Drive

See work by artist and gallery owner Billy Lutz. Born in Flint, Michigan, in 1951, Lutz began painting in oil at age 14. By 1973, his subject matter focused on what lay beneath appearances. Later, this search transformed into painting in spiritual themes, attempting to discern spiritual realities from religious orthodoxies. This month, Lutz offers artwork depicting a winter landscape with two profiled and opposing faces, locking eyes in the knowing, shared information of father and son. "Through the thicket of pussy willows (the collective), the hand of the son connects with that of the child who, in turn, receives the same information," he says.
