

John Jolley, a cartoonist who lives in Astoria, takes us on a look back at some of our newsy and notorious events of the past year.

We saw fake orcas and beach balls to combat pesky sea lions, humpback whales in the Columbia River, and a sheathed Astoria Column.

There was a dust-up over Hood to Coast in Seaside, a party barn in Gearhart, and that bawdy new sign down at Annie's.

