

OBITUARIES

Sandra Lee (Olmstead) Sarin

Astoria

March 6, 1943 — Feb. 2, 2016

Sandra Lee (Olmstead) Sarin, 72, passed away peacefully on Feb. 2, 2016, at home in Astoria. She was born March 6, 1943, in Glendale, California, to Babe and Leo Olmstead.

She graduated from Mark Morris High School in Longview, Washington. She attended Lower Columbia College, where she met her college sweetheart Charles "Chuck" Sarin in October 1961. They dated for almost three years, and were married on June 27, 1964, in Longview, Washington.

They moved to Astoria in December 1964, where they have lived together for over 51 years. She was a wonderful mother and grandmother to her two sons and five grandchildren. She was also "Mom" and "Grandma" to countless others.

She had a successful professional career that began with selling home interiors, and included nearly 10 years of selling real estate for Pete Andersen Realty and Dave Dickson Realty. After a short stint working in banking, she spent 15 years in the Student Services Department at Clatsop Community College, where she was a loan officer who helped students with their financial aid. She retired in 1999. She also served on the city of Astoria Planning Commission.

One of her many legacies was the ability to connect deeply with the people she knew and met along the way. She was a great listener with a bright and infectious smile. She had a special way of getting people to open up and share, so she could find positive seeds and replant them. She was a guiding light for many people, and will be missed dearly.

She is survived by her husband, Chuck; sister, Karen (Tom) Campbell of Concord, California; brother, Larry (Karon) Olmstead of Seattle; son, Mike (Laura) Sarin of Astoria; son, Eric (Bea) Sarin of Westlake Village, California; grandchildren, Rick, Brittanie, Mikayla, Luke and Leo; as well as numerous cousins, nieces and nephews.

There will be a celebration of her life on March 5 at 2 p.m. at the Warrenton Community Center, 170 S.W. Third St., Warrenton, Oregon.

Caldwell's Luce-Layton Mortuary in Astoria is in charge of the arrangements. An online guest book may be signed at www.caldwells-mortuary.com

Study suggested for Ecola Park Road

Traffic congestion, landslides are problems

By NANCY MCCARTHY For EO Media Group

CANNON BEACH — A member of the Cannon Beach Public Works Committee is proposing that the committee embark on a long-range study to improve Ecola Park Road.

Les Wierson, who lives near the road that leads to Ecola State Park, told the committee at its meeting last week that traffic to the park is increasing every year. The steep, narrow and winding road needs improvements to handle the vehicles, pedestrians and bikers heading to and from the park, he said.

"We need better information about how to handle Ecola Park Road between Fifth and Ninth streets," Wierson said. "The traffic has doubled or tripled in the last few years."

Included in the study could be the development of a pedestrian path to the park, Wierson said.

"If we have some ideas for improvements, it would be a much more powerful tool to give to state parks," he added. "I think the state should allocate money annually to maintain the road."

Committee Chair Jenee Pearce asked Wierson to make specific recommendations about what the public works committee should study. Wierson said he would create a subcommittee that also would include Jan Siebert Wahrman, another public works committee member who lives near Ecola Park Road.

Public Works Director Dan Grassick said the hillside along Ecola Park Road is sliding between Seventh and Eighth streets, and pavement has been "torn" in some places. Because the "S" curves on Ecola Park Road are suffering similar drainage problems that caused landslides on the "S" curves in midtown several years ago, the city will contact the contractor who repaired that problem, Grassick said.

However, it could be at least two years before the repairs are made, he said, because funding for the project must be put into the city budget before work can begin.

Meanwhile, the city will begin removing several alder trees along a 300-foot-long stretch of Ecola Park Road. The trees are beginning to lean into the roadway; recent heavy rainfall has exacerbated the problem, Grassick said.

The city also will remove the "heritage" spruce trees on Fifth and Larch streets on the north side of town, he added. Two arborists have told the city that the trees have "significant health issues" and are rotted at the base. Nearby residents will be notified, Grassick said.

"I don't expect we will take them out for a couple of months," he said. "There will be significant comment."

Grassick said he expected other trees will be planted in their place, but they won't be spruces.

More tree trimming will be done on every street in Cannon Beach to make room for the Cannon Beach Rural Fire Protection District's ladder truck, said Grassick. Limbs extending longer than 14 feet will be cut back, but the trees will be pruned to balance them on every side, he said.
