Redwood Son will perform Feb. 26 and 27 at Pickled Fish in Long Beach, Washington, and then travel across the river to Astoria to perform Feb. 28 at Fort George Brewery.

Redwood Son plays Pickled Fish, the Fort Hear Americana music in Long Beach, Astoria this weekend

LONG BEACH, Wash. and ASTORIA — Portland Americana band Redwood Son will perform on both sides of the river this weekend.

First, the alt-country roots rock band will perform at 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 26 and 27 at Pickled Fish in the Adrift Hotel, located at 409 Sid Snyder Drive.

Then, the band will play a show at 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 28 at Fort George Brewery, located at 1483 Duane St.

Both shows are open to all ages, and there is no cover charge.

Since being named Best New Artist at the 2011 Portland Music Awards, Redwood Son has done a great deal of growing up. The road will do that to a person. Having toured and promoted a unique brand of “West Coast Americana” for the past five years, it was time to refine things even more.

The band, led by Joshua Malm Tree, released a three-song “Westicana” EP on Feb. 6 and has been touring to promote the EP. Proceeds from sales will go toward manufacturing the full-length vinyl LP, which is set to release this spring and will be produced by Steve Berlin (Los Lobos).

Fusing vintage tones with contemporary stylings, these songs promise to bring a more mature approach to some timeless folk tunes. Truth be told, you may even find a few dusts of country music in this new album, but that’s not a bad thing. Life brings tragedy, and those bleed feelings. Redwood Son
