

Find garden art at Peninsula Clay Artists show, sale

OCEAN PARK, Wash. — Mother's Day and the warm weather of spring are fast approaching. The Peninsula Clay Artists invite you to prepare for the holiday and the upcoming gardening season with the group's Mother's Day Garden Extravaganza Show and Sale, taking place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23.

The show and sale will be held in the studio at Bay Avenue Gallery, located at 1406 Bay Ave, and will feature filled planters, outdoor garden art, ceramic jewelry, gifts and Mother's Day specials.

The Peninsula Clay Artists group serves as a way for talented local clay artists to work together to show and sell their work. This show is the group's first event in 2016. Many of the artists will be in attendance.

"Our group is growing with many new members bringing fresh ideas and talents to our shows," member Danni Pederson says. "This sale is something new for us; lately we've experimented with new ideas for garden art."

Many of the artists work several days each week at the Bay Avenue Gallery studio.

They share ideas, techniques, tools and skills.

Shelley Weaver has been working on dogwood and daffodil flowers. John Forder has new wall fish planters perfect for small plants. Barbara Dunn has a new bird-bath design: bright, beautiful and one of a kind. This show
