

Knappa play examines conflict in Middle East

ASTORIA — Knappa High School will present “Stone Girls Dreaming,” at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 14 at Clatsop Community College’s Performing Arts Center.

The play, by Lisa Railsback, tells the story of two girls, one Palestinian and one Israeli, who are caught in the throes of the second intifada, a Palestinian uprising against Israel in the 2000s.

Sophie Hansen will perform as the Palestinian character, and Kacie Klein will act as the Israeli girl.

Proceeds will benefit the Immigrant and Refugee Community Organization, which promotes the integration of refugees and immigrants into a self-sufficient, healthy, inclusive, multi-ethnic society. To prepare for the play, students from Knappa visited David Douglas High School in Portland and met with some refugee high schoolers.

The Performing Arts Center is located at 588 16th St. Admission is free, with a suggested donation of $10.

Loch Lomond brings indie rock to Seaview

SEAVIEW, Wash. — The Sou’Wester Lodge will host Portland band Loch Lomond for a performance at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 14.

In addition to employing notable visceral and expert melodic acrobatics, the co-ed sextet of Loch Lomond distinctly incorporates the use of vibraphone, piano, guitars, mellotron, clarinet, flute, drums, bass and other sonic treatments to foil the arresting voice of lead singer/multi-instrumentalist Ritchie Young.

Young is able to switch from high-pitched fragility to alto thunder in the turn of a phrase, yet he knows the power of restraint, saving vocal tornadoes for emotional apexes buoyed by string swells and moving arrangements.

Create foraging baskets with Kathy Karbo May 21

GEARHART — Trail’s End Art Association will offer a foraging basketry workshop with Kathy Karbo from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, May 21. No experience is needed, and all materials will be provided.

Karbo brings her energy, creativity, experience and skill as an instructor to each learning opportunity.

She got started in basketry when she lived in Montclair, New Jersey. A docent at the Israel Crane House, she studied colonial crafts, including basketry. With expert help, she began making baskets. The experience changed Karbo’s life, and she found herself weaving up to 16 hours a day.

Foraging baskets grow from long traditions of basket making. During the workshop, participants will focus on structure and technique to create unconventional versions of traditional gathering baskets. Basket makers will be free to explore embellishment, texture, color and mark to make the creation their own. Using a wide variety of materials that can include cardboard, handmade and laminated papers, recycled metals, wire, beads, leather and found objects, participants can create versatile baskets. The results can become dried flower holders, gifts or whatever the basket maker determines.

To register, email janem270@gmail.com. The cost for the workshop will be $50 for Trail’s End members and $55 for non-members. Plan to bring a sack lunch or shop in nearby Gearhart for carry out items.
