

Students win prestigious scholarships

The Daily Astorian

Two students in a federal college preparatory program run by Clatsop Community College have been named to the Ford Scholars Program, one of the most prestigious scholarships available in Oregon.

Senior Tieara Moore, one of two valedictorians at Knappa High School and a member of the federal Talent Search program, will attend Oregon State University. Cordet Gula, a member of the federal Student Support Services program, will attend Pacific University.

The Ford Scholars Program, run by the Ford Family Foundation started by the late Kenneth Ford of Roseburg Forest Products Co., pays for 90 percent of college costs — or up to $25,000 a year — for four years. The foundation chose 106 students from Oregon and 14 from Siskiyou County, California, out of more than 6,000 applicants.

“The Ford Family Foundation scholarship means everything to me,” Moore said in a release. “I do not have to worry about how to pay for college. I can go to Oregon State University and concentrate on my studies (and) not how to pay for school. I am so blessed.”

Gula said she is in awe about winning the scholarship. “My past experience led me to believe none of my dreams would come true, but because of winning this scholarship, I know they will.”

Columbia River subarea halibut fishery closes

The Daily Astorian

NEWPORT — The Pacific halibut all-depth sport fishery in the Columbia River subarea is closing for the remainder of the year, fishery managers have announced.

The all-depth fishery from Leadbetter Point in Washington state to Cape Falcon in Oregon opened on May 1 and was scheduled to be open every Thursday through Sunday through Sept. 30, or until the harvest of 10,509 pounds of Pacific halibut, whichever came first. However, preliminary estimates indicate that landings are nearing the quota, and not enough remains for additional open days.

The fishery closes at midnight. Effort in the Columbia River subarea this year was similar to 2015 and catch rates were good, enabling anglers to harvest the entire quota for this fishery in a similar time frame as in 2015.

The Columbia River near-shore fishery (inside the 40-fathom line off of Oregon) remains open Mondays through Wednesdays until Sept. 30, or until the quota of 500 pounds is reached, whichever comes first.

She spent her working life in the Bumble Bee Seafood office, eventually becoming secretary to the president.

It was at Bumble Bee that she met her husband, Fred Leslie. They were married in 1959, and settled at their home in Fernhill, where she lived all but the last eight years of her life. He preceded her in death in 2002.
