

WHAT WILL THE NEXT 15 YEARS OF CANCER CARE LOOK LIKE?

JUNE 5 IS CANCER SURVIVORS DAY.
KATIE KNUDSON IS AMONG
THOUSANDS WORLDWIDE LIVING
HEALTHY LIVES, THANKS TO AMAZING
BREAKTHROUGHS AT OHSU.

Shortly after her sixth birthday, Katie was diagnosed with cancer. Soon, she'll celebrate her 21st birthday – thanks to the world's first targeted cancer therapy, developed in 2001 by Brian Druker, M.D., now director of the OHSU Knight Cancer Institute.

Now, OHSU is finishing what we started. We're building an army to radically reinvent early detection. To find more kinds of cancer, earlier than ever. To prevent unnecessary treatment. And to save even more lives. Join our cause. Together, we'll help put an end to cancer.
