LightBox observes seventh anniversary

'Plastic Fantastic Show VII' opens

ASTORIA — LightBox Photographic Gallery celebrates its seventh anniversary with the opening and artists' reception of the "Plastic Fantastic Show VII" from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday, June 11.

This annual group exhibit originated with LightBox's love for images made with basic plastic "toy" film cameras and as a way to celebrate the gallery's anniversary each year.

A large number of photographers from around the world shoot images with these basic cameras, creating unique photos that are captured on film. This photographic method has gained popularity because of the images achieved using cameras with less than perfect optics and control lead to unpredictable and sometimes extraordinarily beautiful results.

Internationally renowned fine art photographer Susan Burnstine of Los Angeles once again juried the exhibit. Burnstine uses homemade cameras consisting of plastic lenses and vintage camera and household parts. She has become an acclaimed photographic artist shooting with film and using rudimentary cameras of her own design.

"It is once again a great honor to act as juror for 'Plastic Fantastic VII.' I'm continuously surprised and inspired by the remarkable quality of work that is submitted to this one-of-a-kind show, which is the last to solely honor the magic of plastic, pinhole and homemade cameras shot exclusively with film," Burnstine said. "I congratulate everyone who was selected for this exhibit and applaud everyone who submitted. The award selections were incredibly difficult, and I salute every one of you for having the courage to create such beauty with limited tools such as these."

This year, Diane Peterson of Portland received the juror's top award for the image, "On the Hill"; Lisa Lindamood of Knoxville, Tennessee, received the second juror's award for "Kiss by a Ghost on New Years Eve"; Daniel Grant from San Francisco received the third award for "Polka Dots"; and Carole Glauber of Portland received the Honorable Mention.

LightBox opened in Astoria on June 13, 2009. Chelsea and Michael Granger established the venue to educate people in the photographic arts. In seven years and with over 90 exhibits since opening, LightBox has become important regionally as a Northwest photographic resource, hosting national and regional artists with exhibits of fine photography, conducting artists' presentations and workshops, all as part of the goal to provide a center for the promotion of creative and alternative photography on the North Coast of Oregon.

The 'Plastic Fantastic Show VII' runs from June 11 until July 6. LightBox is located at 1045 Marine Drive. For more information, call 503-468-0238 email info@lightbox-photographic.com or visit lightbox-photographic.com
