THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

'What is a favorite summer festival or event?'

"The Seafood, Crab and Wine Festival. The county fair is always fun, too. And I used to love the Commercial Fishermen's Festival, when the Alaskan fishermen came down."

Leah Penttila, Naselle, Washington

"I'm biased because my mom is a 4-H agent, but I'd have to say the county fair."

Nathan Carlson, Astoria

"I'm going there next week. I'm going to Vancouver Island, Cowichan Bay, to play in the 129th annual grass court tennis tournament."

Michael Josephson, Astoria

OBITUARIES

Anne Caruthers Svensen

March 27, 1957 — July 4, 2016

Anne Caruthers (Nimtz) died unexpectedly Monday, July 4, 2016, in Svensen, Oregon, at the age of 59, from breast cancer. She carried the knowledge of her diagnosis privately, with such poise and grace that it was only discovered after her death.

Anne was a compassionate, quirky woman who loved her family above all else. Her love knew no bounds, and she was known for taking in stray animals and caring for her children's friends as if they were her own. Her love was unconditional and absolute.

Everyone knew they could always count on her; she was selfless and gave what she had freely and without question to help those around her. Above all else, Anne will be remembered for being a funny, kind, loving woman who lived her life for others. She will be dearly missed by all who knew her.

Anne is survived by her husband, Steve

Caruthers; her three daughters, Venus Larson, Amber Holt and Michelle Nichols; her grandchildren, Joseph Thorne, CJ Thorne and Elizabeth Thorne; her mother, Roberta Work; her two brothers, Blaine Nimtz and William Nimtz; and her mother-in-law, Betty Brumm.

A viewing is scheduled for Thursday, July 14, 2016, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Caldwell's Luce-Layton Mortuary in Astoria, Oregon. A celebration of life will be held afterward from 3 to 6 p.m. at 1450 Madison Ave, Astoria, Oregon. All are welcome to attend and celebrate Anne's life.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to Vet Ranch, P.O. Box 641, Boerne, TX 78006, an organization dedicated to providing medical treatment to homeless animals that would otherwise have no advocate.

Hubert Hendrickson

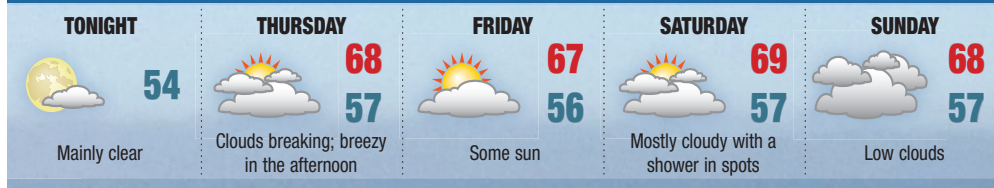

Surrounded by family, Hubert (Hugh) Hendrickson died peacefully in Seaside, Oregon, on July 3. Hugh's life was a witness to his deep faith in God. Through his example, he inspired his family and all who knew him to look for good in others, love unconditionally, make a priority to serve and pray regularly for family and friends, and volunteer in the community.

Born in Astoria on Nov. 27, 1925, Hubert was the only child of Sylvia Anderson and Carl Elmer Hendrickson. Carl died from a residual war injury before Hubert was born, so Sylvia moved with Hubert to Fern Hill to live with her parents. When Hubert was 7, Sylvia married Cameron Larson, a local business owner, and moved to Seaside.

In 1943, Hubert graduated from Seaside High School, and would later be inducted into the Seaside High School Hall of Fame in recognition of his high school and career accomplishments. After high school, Hubert attended Oregon State College before joining the Navy. He was selected for electronics school, and at 19 was assigned to maintain the electronic equipment for a flotilla of landing ship tanks in the Pacific. Following World War II, Hubert returned to OSC, graduating in 1950 with a degree in chemical engineering.

On Sept. 2, 1950, Hubert married Mae Eileen Hill in Astoria. They raised their three children in Longview, Washington, and then in Federal Way, Washington, following a move in 1973. During his 38-year career at Weyerhaeuser, Hubert obtained a patent for using bark fiber in molded plastics, and helped

Razor clamming closes Friday

The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife has closed the 18 miles of beaches north of Tillamook Head to razor clam digging since 1967 to allow young clams to establish themselves on the beach during the summer.

"We want to ensure that the Clatsop beaches continue to be productive for razor clam harvesters," said Matt Hunter, the department's shellfish and phytoplankton project leader. "By not disturbing the young razor clams it increases the chance of good recruitment."

The department reported a record harvest this year with nearly all harvesters getting their limit of clams every trip. Clatsop beaches are the most productive razor clam beaches in the state, according to the department, accounting for more than 90 percent of total harvest.
