

POINT of view

THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

'What is a favorite back to school memory?'

"I loved going back and seeing my friends."

Sara Meyer, Astoria

"Getting back to see my friends. And going clothes shopping — pants and tops, and always a new pair of shoes."

Carrie Robinson, Astoria

"I loved getting a new trapper-keeper. And I loved getting new outfits. I would take over an hour picking out clothes."

Maya Sanders, Astoria

Eddie Bauer admits data breach at all its stores

Associated Press

Eddie Bauer says its retail stores' point-of-sale systems were infected with malware earlier this year, possibly giving hackers access to customers' payment card information.

The Bellevue, Washington-based clothing retailer said Thursday it will offer free identity protection services for a year to all customers who shopped at Eddie Bauer stores between Jan. 2 and July 17.

Online sales through the company's website weren't affected by the malware.

Eddie Bauer operates more than 360 stores in North America, including an outlet in Seaside.

The company says an investigation conducted by forensic experts found that the intrusion in its stores was part of an attack directed at restaurants, hotels and other retailers.

The retailer says it has already strengthened the security of its point-of-sale systems to prevent more intrusions.

Forestry department stretched too thin

Associated Press

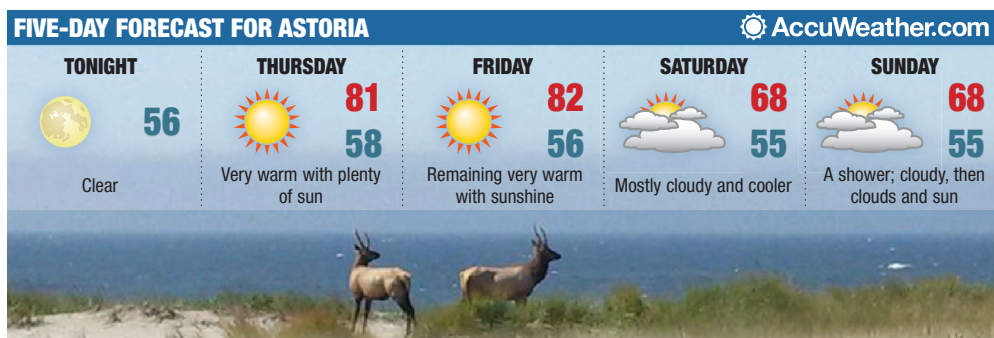

BEND — An Oregon state audit says the time, effort and money spent fighting wildfires has strained workers and harmed other programs at the Oregon Department of Forestry.

The Bend Bulletin

reported that the Oregon secretary of state released the audit on Tuesday.

According to the report, the wildfire workload has increased and staffing has not kept pace, forcing more employees to do fire-related assignments and work longer hours. The audit says the forestry department is fighting more severe fires with about the same number of employees it had 20 years ago.

The department says it supports and agrees with the audit's findings. Officials have detailed ways they plan to address the recommendations.

OBITUARY

Kathleen Marie Porter-Jordan

Silver Spring, Maryland

Aug. 11, 1956 — Aug. 16, 2016

Kathleen Porter-Jordan was born on Aug. 11, 1956, in Hillsboro, Oregon, to Elmer and Alvis (Miller) Porter. She graduated from Seaside High School in 1974, and attended college at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Boston University.

She married Michael Jordan and they had two sons, Jonathan and Matthew.

Kathy worked as a pathologist in the Washington, D.C., area and later did research for a biotech company. She retired early, due to ill health. Kathy and Mike were divorced after 20 years of marriage.

Kathy was preceded in death by her father, Elmer Porter; her sister, Alice Porter Stich; her sister-in-law, Suzanne Jordan; and her cousin, Howard Miller. She is survived by her sons, Jonathan and Matthew Jordan of Maryland; her mother, Alvis Porter of Seaside; her uncle, Charles (Sharon) Miller of Salem; her aunt, Alice Clymenms of Woodburn; and her cousins, Cheryl (David) Danilowicz of Pennsylvania and Jannette (Lyle) Dahl of Jacksonville, Oregon.

Kathleen Porter-Jordan

Memorial contributions may be made in her name at the Seaside Library.

Hines-Rinaldi Funeral Home of Silver Spring, Maryland, is in charge of the arrangements. An online guest book may be signed at <http://bit.ly/2bdhxEt>

Appeals Court: Out-of-state license plates don't justify search

By ROXANA HEGEMAN

Associated Press

WICHITA, Kan. — Law enforcement officials in Kansas cannot stop and search motorists just for having out-of-state license plates from states that have legalized marijuana, a federal appeals court ruled Tuesday.

The 10th Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated a lawsuit filed by a Colorado motorist, Peter Vasquez, against two Kansas Highway Patrol officers who pulled him over and searched his vehicle as he was driving alone at night through Kansas on his way to Maryland.

The KHP officers, Richard Jimerson and Dax Lewis, stopped Vasquez when they could not read the temporary tag taped to the inside of the car's tinted rear window. The officers contended they were justified in searching the vehicle because Vasquez was a citizen of Colorado driving on I-70, a "known drug corridor," in a recently purchased, older-model car. They said he also seemed nervous.

A divided panel found the officers violated Vasquez's Fourth Amendment rights in searching his car without his consent. Nothing illegal was found.

Twenty-five states permit marijuana use for medicinal purposes, with Colorado, Alaska, Oregon, Washington, and Washington, D.C., permitting some recreational use under state law, the court noted.

The officers' reasoning would justify the search and seizure of citizens of half of the states in the country, the court said, adding it is "wholly improper" to assume someone is more likely to commit a crime because of his state of residence.

"Accordingly, it is time to abandon the pretense that state citizenship is a permissible basis upon which to justify the detention and search of out-of-state motorists, and time to stop the practice of detention of motorists for nothing more than an out-of-state license plate," the ruling states.

A lower court had ruled the officers were entitled to qualified immunity when it threw out the case, but the appeals court disagreed and sent it back for further proceedings.

Scores improve for Oregon students taking ACT college test

Associated Press

PORTLAND — Results from the ACT college entrance exam show improvement in the college readiness of Oregon's graduating seniors.

Thirty-two percent of Oregon ACT-takers showed they were ready for college across all four subjects, slightly better than the previous graduating class.

The four tests are scored on a scale of 1 to 36, and most colleges use the average of the four scores in admissions.

The composite score for Oregon students in the class of 2015 improved to 21.7 out of 36 — higher than the national composite score of 20.8.

Thirteen Oregon students achieved a perfect 36.
