THE DAILY ASTORIAN // QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Victoria Hatchell,
Gearhart

"Oh, I'm working. Love that double time and a half!"

Judy Hughes, Seaside

"My Labor Day weekend plans are to stay home and have a barbecue with my family. It doesn't sound like much, but who wants to be out in all that hullabaloo?"

Sabrina Pell, Portland

"I don't have any. But I'll probably see my daughter and grandson in Beaverton."

'Bad apple culprit' hits homes

Associated Press

VANCOUVER, Wash. — One rotten apple spoils the bunch, but a man known as the "bad apple culprit" doesn't stop at just one.

The Clark County Sheriff's Office in southwest Washington says someone has periodically been tossing apples on roofs. Sometimes the culprit leaves a note, as was the case when he recently struck at a home in Hazel Dell.

In the note, the culprit claimed he targeted five homes — three apples per house. He also wrote of his experience tossing apples at homes across the Columbia River in Portland.

He says Portland

"might be the best place on Earth for a hooligan riding a bicycle with a backpack full of apples." That's because there are bicyclists everywhere and it's easy to get lost in the neighborhoods.

Deputies have released a surveillance image of the culprit in hopes the public can identify him.

High numbers of invasive beetles found in Portland area

Associated Press

PORTLAND — State agricultural officials say a record number of invasive Japanese beetles have been detected in Washington County this summer.

KPTV-TV reported that the Oregon Department of Agriculture has recorded 265 Japanese beetles in traps placed in Portland, indicating the insects may be breeding there.

The department plans to continue trapping efforts to pinpoint the exact location of the breeding population and to know where to begin treatment measures.

The Japanese beetles feed on a variety of plant material, including trees, shrubs, flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Killing of wolf pack leads to death threats

Associated Press

SEATTLE — The killing of a pack of wolves in north-eastern Washington to protect cattle is producing death threats for people on both sides of the issue.

The Seattle Times reported Wednesday that researcher Rob Wielgus of Washington

State University is declining further comment on the pending elimination of the Profanity Peak pack by hunters for the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Wielgus told the newspaper that his friends at the agency have received death threats.

Last week, state Rep. Joel Kretz, R-Wauconda, told the newspaper that ranchers also were receiving death threats.

Wolves were exterminated in Washington in the early 1900s. They began returning to the state in 2008 from other areas.

Six of the 11 members of the Profanity Peak pack had been killed as of last Friday.

OBITUARIES

Gladys Marie Egeland Hagerty Hermiston

Aug. 15, 1933 — Aug. 27, 2016

Gladys Marie Egeland Hagerty, 83, of Hermiston, Oregon, passed away peacefully Saturday, Aug. 27, 2016.

Gladys began her final traditional birthday trip to Ocean Shores, Washington, "topless" in the convertible from Sun Terrace. She returned home from her birthday weekend to spend her real birthday with her son, John. Five days later she suffered a severe stroke which put her birthday journey in the hands of hospice. Hospice guided her through her last stages of life, finally ending her birthday journey with her husband Bill, her parents Gus and Marie, and her sister Katherine.

Gladys was born Aug. 15, 1933, in Forest Grove, Montana, to Norwegian immigrants Gust and Marie (Indebro) Egeland. She attended school in Forest Grove, and Winifred High School, where she graduated. When Gladys was 19 she obtained her teaching certificate, and was recruited by the territory of Alaska to teach grade school in Yakutat. This event sparked a lifelong passion for travel.

During that year she met the love of her life, a cute little U.S. Coast Guardsman, William (Bill) Hagerty. From that day forward, her teaching career paralleled Bill's Coast Guard career. She married him in Savannah, Georgia, on Aug. 20, 1954. Her first child was born in Lewistown, Montana, while Bill was deer hunting in October 1955. Her second child was born in Hilo, Hawaii (still a territory), in October 1957.

Throughout the duration of Bill's maritime career, they were always stationed near the ocean. Many memories and friends were made in the years spent at Groton, Connecticut, and Warrenton, Oregon.

Gladys continued her education, graduating from Great Falls College, and finally earning her master's degree in special education from the University of Oregon.

When Gladys was 38, her teaching career was temporarily interrupted and forever changed when she suffered from an aneurysm. This event did bless her and everyone in her life with a permanent and contagious laugh.

It was when Bill retired from the Coast Guard, and her children were grown, that she was able to expand her passion for travel. Her travels consisted of visiting Bill and setting up temporary homes in various places around the world, including England, Japan, and China, and finally settling down in Longview, Washington. Her dear husband Bill passed away in 1999, and her travels were enjoyed with her children. From Alaska to Mexico, and everywhere in between, she continued her journeys.

In 2008, she made her last move from Longview, Washington, to Hermiston, Oregon. She remained there, fiercely independent and making friends with every person who crossed her path with her light-heartedness and drawer full of chocolates.

Gladys is survived by a son, John Hagerty of Seaside, Oregon; a daughter, K.C. Lorenzen (Dave) of Hermiston, Oregon; a grandson, Noel LeRoux of Washington, D.C.; a granddaughter, Sarah LeRoux of Hermiston, Oregon; a great-grandson, Sean Stewart; and an extended family of cousins, nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Gust and Marie; her husband, Bill; and her sister, Katherine.

A celebration of life service will be held on Thursday, Sept. 1, 2016, at 11 a.m., at Burns Mortuary Chapel in Hermiston, Oregon. Burial will be at Willamette National Cemetery in Portland, Oregon.

Burns Mortuary of Hermiston, Oregon, is in charge of the arrangements. Please sign the online guest book at www.burnsmortuaryhermiston.com
