Iraqi forces launch military push to drive IS from Mosul

KHAZER, Iraq — Iraqi government and Kurdish forces, backed by U.S.-led coalition air and ground support, launched coordinated military operations early on Monday as the long-awaited fight to wrest the northern city of Mosul from Islamic State fighters got underway. But the battle for Mosul is likely to be long and at this early stage when the troops would enter the city itself.

Also, the fate of civilians trapped inside Mosul will also be critical as the battle intensifies in the days and weeks ahead amid concerns that the extremist Islamic State could use them as potential human shields.

In the morning hours Monday, convoys of Iraqi, Kurdish and U.S. forces moved east of Mosul along the front line as U.S.-led coalition airstrikes sent plumes of smokes into the air and heavy artillery rounds could be heard.

Trump controversies cast shadow on Mar-a-Lago charity galas

WASHINGTON — A staple of Palm Beach's high-end philanthropy circuit, the Mar-a-Lago Club boasts rich history, an 800-seat ballroom and ocean views. But some major charities and fundraisers are now concerned with a different feature: the property's owner, Donald Trump.

After the leak of Trump boasting about grabbing women by their genitals and allegations that he inappropriately touched women — in two instances at Mar-a-Lago — the Susan G. Komen Foundation is leaning toward finding a new location for its January 14 Perfect Pink Party, a million-dollar breast cancer fundraiser.

The charity has no position on Trump, the GOP presidential nominee, but wants to keep its event separate from "controversies unrelated to our mission," said Andrea Rader, a spokeswoman for the organization. The group won't make a final decision about whether to abandon its deposit until after October, which is Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

But, Rader said, "those are things that have to be discussed." Event planners who spoke with the AP forecast trouble ahead for the high-end party space.

Company to assess environmental impact of geoduck farm

BREMERTON, Wash. — A Washington company has volunteered to examine the environmental impact of its proposed shellfish farm after opposition from environmental groups.

The Kitsap Sun reports that Taylor Shellfish, Washington's largest shellfish grower, plans to convert existing commercial shellfish beds in Burley Lagoon into a geoduck farm. The 25-acre area would be covered with a grid of plastic tubes and mesh to protect the large clams and plastic netting would be used as an extra barrier to predators.

Environmental groups and scientists say geoduck farming gear could make it difficult for eagles and seabirds to find food and might harm wildlife.
