Seaside Elks Lodge tests vision for Head Start

The Daily Astorian

SEASIDE — On Oct. 17, Seaside Elks Lodge members assisted with eye screening of 34 Seaside Head Start students ages 3 to 5. An infrared camera, the Plus Optics Vision Screener, is used to test for problems, including “lazy eye.” Any child showing a need for further testing is referred for more screenings.

The Elks Children’s Eye Clinic is the major charitable project of the Oregon State Elks Association. Thanks to grants from the Oregon State Elks Association, the eye clinic gives free vision screenings to Head Start programs and public libraries across the state. Using photo screening technology, refraction, pupil sizes, and corneal reflexes are measured instantly.

For information about other community projects or membership, call 503-738-6651 or email seasideelks@yahoo.com

Jasyn Gohl and Raina Christian, seniors at Astoria High School, were selected as Astoria Rotary Students of the Month for October at the group’s Oct. 11 meeting.

Gohl, Christian are Students of the Month

The Daily Astorian

The Astoria Rotary honored two Astoria High School seniors, Raina Christian and Jasyn Gohl, as Students of the Month for October at the Oct. 11 meeting. Both students received a Rotary Certificate and a gift certificate from The Rusty Cup.

Astoria Rotary will select Students of the Month during the school year from the junior and senior classes at AHS and Knappa High School. To be selected, students must be in good standing in school and involved in school and community activities.

Gohl is the son of Tal and Kendra Gohl. He is involved in the Key Club, National Honor Society and varsity basketball and baseball, and is the Astoria School District parliamentarian. He hopes to attend the University of Oregon or Oregon State University to study kinesiology and psychology.

Christian is the daughter of Diane and David Christian. Raina is involved in the Key Club (vice president), Chinese Club (founder), Art Out Loud Club and National Honor Society, and is chief editor of the Astor Post.

Compassionate Companions sought

The Daily Astorian

Clatsop Care Center is accepting applications for Compassionate Companion volunteers, who befriend care center residents in times of need. Volunteer roles are flexible and can accommodate many schedules and interests. Current needs for the program include volunteers for regularly scheduled supportive one-on-one visits with residents in emotional crisis, and volunteers for short-term commitments to support residents who are in the terminal process, and their families.

Specialized training and ongoing support to volunteers will be provided. Volunteers will work on an on-call basis, and may be placed with residents living at Clatsop Care Center or Clatsop Retirement Village.

Qualities that make a successful volunteer include compassion, patience, good listening skills and the ability to maintain confidentiality laws. Attendance at training workshop from 8:30 a.m. to noon Nov. 12 is required.

For information, and to register for the workshop, call Rosetta Hurley at 503-325-0313, ext. 222.
