

Seaside church puts on holiday bazaar

SEASIDE — Calvary Episcopal Church will hold its annual holiday bazaar.

The doors will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 11. Dessert and beverages will be available.

The doors will re-open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 12. Be sure to come hungry and enjoy lunch for purchase (11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.), including shrimp chowder or hearty soup with bread; there will also be hot dogs and a variety of pies and beverages available for lunch.

Visitors will also find homemade baked goods and candy, including cookies, breads, fudge as well as soup mixes, jam and other gourmet items. In addition, the bazaar will offer for sale vintage linens, unique kitchen items, collectibles and a gently used table.

Raffle tickets will be available for a Christmas wall hanging made by Judy Carder of Gearhart. Tickets will be $1 each or six for $5. The winner need not be present to win.

Proceeds from the bazaar benefit local charities and special church projects.

The church is located at 503 North Holladay Drive.

Oregon Shakespeare Festival comes to Chinook

CHINOOK, Wash. — Friends of Chinook School will once again celebrate Shakespeare this November.

At 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, living history lecturer James Alan will perform "Learning Among the Oak Groves: A Look at Celtic Life" at Hilltop Auditorium, located at 442 Brumbach St. in Ilwaco. Donations will be accepted. Alan is an actress, historian and fashion history teacher who has been touring her living history programs throughout the U.S. since 1986.

Then, Friends of Chinook School will host Oregon Shakespeare Festival actors Domonique Champion and Annie Paul as part of the festival's School Visit Program.

On Nov. 17 and 18, students from Ilwaco, Naselle and Astoria schools will be bussed to the Chinook School Event Center to watch scenes performed by the OSF actors followed by workshops where they actively participate in interpreting the Bard.

On Friday evening, it's the community's chance to enjoy the actors at Chinook School Event Center. At 7 p.m., students from Ilwaco, Naselle and Astoria high schools will perform a pre-show.

Then, Champion and Paul will take the stage at 8 p.m., performing scenes from "Julius Caesar" and "Shakespeare Smackdown," a program that pairs Shakespeare scenes from plays like "Romeo and Juliet," "As You Like It" and "Henry IV" with modern scenes that deal with the same issues.

Admission for the entire evening is $10 with students admitted for free. Tickets are available at the Bank of the Pacific branches in Astoria, Warrenton, Naselle, Long Beach and Ocean Park or by calling Connie at 360-777-8859. Tickets are also available at the door.

The annual celebration in the Chinook School Event Center pays tribute to OSF founder Angus Bowmer, who taught at the Chinook School in the 1920s.

In the OSF School Visit Program, teams of actors tour schools throughout Oregon, Washington, California and Kansas from October through December, engaging students from diverse backgrounds through live performances and active workshops.

Bowmer created the School Visit Program in 1971 as a way to reach a wider audience, and over the past 45 years OSF has reached over 2 million students in over 7,000 schools in 12 western states.

"Get ready for a show unlike anything that you've seen. Our shows are very interactive and audience driven. We will be down in the crowd, we will bring people up on stage, we will be showing a lot of skin, and we will have something for everyone. This will be a fantastic show filled with oohs, aahs, and things that will blow your mind. This is NOT your regular drag show, this is the Caravan of GLAM." - Justin Buckles/Ecstasy Inferno - Creators/Producers

Hear the country music of Loretta Lynn

ASTORIA — A group of Oregon musicians paying tribute to country music legend Loretta Lynn will make a stop in Astoria during their fall tour of the Oregon Coast.

Fronted by Portland folk-country songstress Mary Rondthaler, the five-piece band will perform "Hey Loretta!" —two 45-minute sets featuring the songs of Lynn at Clatsop Community College's Performing Arts Center. The shows take place at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12 and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13.

Tickets are $15 and are available in advance at the Rusty Cup, located at 1213 Commercial St., and online at www.brownpapertickets.com

Also known as the Coal Miner's Daughter, Lynn wrote many of her own songs and has been dubbed the Queen of Country Music throughout her five-decade career. In 1972, she was the first woman to be nominated and named Entertainer of the Year by the Country Music Association. She is the only woman to have won the title of CMA Artist of the Decade for the '70s.

Rondthaler has spent many years honing her craft around the Portland music scene. She has performed and recorded with George Chudacoff, Succotash, The Sagebrush Sisters and The Rocky Butte Wranglers.

She can be seen regularly singing country and western songs with the Wranglers at nightclubs around the Northwest, as well as with The Sagebrush Sisters, a threepiece cowgirl swing band. Rondthaler is known for her knack of picking great unknown songs from the repertoires of many legendary country music artists.

The band features three graduates of Oregon State University who studied music under Professor Neal Grandstaff, widely known for his lifelong contribution to music performance and education. They are Justin Schepige on bass, Tommy Brownson on drums and Erik Crew on lead guitar.

Joining them on pedal steel guitar will be veteran Nashville touring pro and session player Gary Thorsen, who toured with Lynn's twin daughters, The Lynns. He has worked for many other country music greats, including Tanya Tucker.
