

Find art, antiques in Ocean Park

OCEAN PARK, Wash. — Get to know the seaside and bayside town of Ocean Park during the second Ocean Park Art and Antiques Festival of Trees from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3. A group of six shops, studios and galleries invite visitors to enjoy the spectacular scenery, friendly people and shopping experiences offered by local artists and vintage collectors alike. Plan to nibble and browse your way through this free and fun event.

"Funchal Morning" is inspired by Eric Wiegardt's recent trip to Portugal, where he taught some watercolor classes.

Naquaiya Studio

1609 273rd Place

Michele Naquaiya's beach bungalow showcases her mosaic talents. A new series of knitwear hats vie for space with scratchboard drawings, paintings, cards, prints and mosaics.

Bay Avenue Gallery

1406 Bay Ave.

Sue Raymond's bustling studio and gallery offers an abundance of artist creativity in the gallery and clay artists at work in the studio. Gifts, art, jewelry and ornaments from local artists dazzle the eye. Bette Lu Krause, an Ocean Park Art & Antique member whose studio is usually on the art and antique walks, will be singing with the Bayside Singers on Dec. 3, but she will have work exhibited at Bay Avenue Gallery.

Forgotten Treasures Antiques and Collectibles

1904 Bay Ave.

At Forgotten Treasures, among the vintage and antique booths, a Christmas tree displays ornaments from yesteryear, brought in by many of the mall dealers. Owners Vince and Alissa Stevens were just awarded the Pacific County EDC Best Business Honor. And somewhat surprisingly, the shop is Bigfoot's favorite haunt; don't forget your cameras.

Weir Studios

2217 Bay Ave.

Andrea Weir has had a burst of creative inspiration resulting in a flurry of watercolor paintings. Weir Studios is a converted boat barn and houses work from Andrea and Sven Weir. Fused glass, beaded art and jewelry fill the barn with color.

Beach Home Old & New

2311 Bay Ave.

Just a hop away is another barn housing photographers Charlie and Bonnie Lou Cozby. "Going to the birds" via rustic, beach chic and traditional ornaments, Beach Home features Christmas trees and a bit of this and that. Colors of nature, gem and sterling silver jewelry will be on sale.

Wiegardt Studio Gallery

2607 Bay Ave.

Eric Wiegardt, a world-renowned watercolorist, has his working studio on the upper floor of this charming antique farmhouse, while the first floor is a kaleidoscope of color created by a floor-to-ceiling display of original work. Prints and cards as well as instructional books, DVDs and art supplies are available too.
