'Got Dirk?' signs mark end of Rohne's time on commission

By KATIE FRANKOWICZ
For The Daily Astorian

Most people at Wednesday's Clatsop County Board of Commissioners meeting showed up to share their thoughts about a controversial timber lawsuit. But many also brought signs they held up in the air for an entirely different reason.

"Got Dirk?" the front of the sign asked. Printed on the back were the words: "Thank you Dirk!!!" Audience members held the signs up as Commission Chairman Scott Lee handed Commissioner Dirk Rohne a plaque, thanking him for his time on the board.

It was Rohne's last commission meeting. After eight years representing the county's east side, the Brownsmead dairy farmer chose to retire rather than run for a third term this November.

"It is very hard to find people to run for public office," Brownsmead resident Cheryl Johnson said. "It is very, very hard to find good people to run for public office."

Rohne, she said, brought an "incredible intelligence" and an "open mind" to the commission.

Rohne also received a commemorative coin from County Manager Cameron Moore.

Rohne first ran as an opponent of liquefied natural gas projects in the county. He later raised concerns about county management.

"We have excellent management now," Rohne said after the meeting. "I feel good about it. I feel like I followed through on some major issues."

OBITUARY

Mildred (Millie) Grace Wright

Seaside
Sept. 27, 1920 — Dec. 7, 2016

Millie passed away peacefully at the age of 96 with her family and loving caregivers at the Necanicum Village (Avamere at Seaside) memory care unit, where she had resided for the past 2 1/2 years.

Millie was the youngest of five born in St. Johns, New Brunswick, Canada, to Lewis Carvell and Hattie Carvell (Randalls). Shortly after her birth the family immigrated to Portland, Maine, and later settled in Pittsfield, Maine, where she attended Pittsfield elementary school.

After completing her education she went to work at the shipyard in Portland, Maine, as a welder and helped build battleships used in World War II. After the war, she began working in the hospitality industry in Michigan then California. She became a naturalized American citizen in 1953 while living in California. In 1966 she moved to Astoria, Oregon, and began working at the Red Lion Seafare Restaurant, where she worked until retiring in 2005.

Millie was well known by many people through her work at Red Lion, although she loved being with people her passion was always her love for animals. She loved all animals, rescued many, and fed the rest.

Millie loved to travel with friends and family. Some other adventures took her to Nevada, Hawaii, Florida, California and Maine. She particularly enjoyed her trip to Europe with her friend Christina, where they backpacked through many countries.

Millie kept busy, and she was always at the ready to help others. She was a member of St. Mary, Star of the Sea Catholic Church. She was also a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and volunteered at their food bank. She participated several years in the Great Columbia Crossing, into her early 80s.

Millie was preceded in death by sisters Hazel Kierstead, Helen Connors, Mabel Blair and Mary McGibney. Also preceding Millie in death was an infant son Peter; grandson Paul Allen Smith; and former husbands Jerry Wells and Terry Wright.

Millie is survived by her daughter and son-in-law, Carolyn (Sue) Schindele and Andrew (Andy) Schindele; grandchildren Shelley Bruney (Joe), Cindy Keane, John Schindele and Lisa Lindberg (Guy Moore); great-grandchildren Sumner Watkins (Derek), Sony Bruney (Erica), Joseph E. Bruney (Gina), Brian Bruney (Stacey), Corey Keane, Nicolas Keane, Cassandra Hancock (Robert), Ryan Young, Katie Young, Courtney Lindberg and Aaron Lindberg; and many great-great-grandchildren.

Per Millie's request, there will be no memorial service, but a family gathering will be held at a later date.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Clatsop County Animal Shelter, or any nonprofit animal rescue organization of your choice.
