Hear The Portland Cello Project perform in Astoria

ASTORIA — The Portland Cello Project will perform at the next Liberty Presents concert, taking place at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13 at the Liberty Theatre, located at 1203 Commercial St.

Since the group's inception in late 2007, the Portland Cello Project has wowed audiences all over the country with extravagant performances, everywhere from Prairie Home Companion to punk rock clubs. The group has built a reputation mixing genres and blurring musical lines and perceptions wherever they go.

No two shows are alike, with a repertoire now numbering over 800 pieces of music you wouldn't normally hear coming out of a cello. The Cello Project's stage setup ranges from the very simple (four to six cellos), to the all-out epic (which has included 12 cellos playing with full choirs, winds, horns and numerous percussion players).

The Portland Cello Project will perform Friday, Jan. 13 at the Liberty Theatre in Astoria.

The Portland Cello Project's mission is three-fold:

- To bring the cello places you wouldn't normally hear it. (Everywhere from nightclubs to symphony halls, from sports bars to loading docks, from libraries to half-time at Portland Trailblazers games.)

- To play music on the cello you wouldn't normally hear played on the instru-

- To build bridges across all musical communities by bringing a diverse assortment of musical collaborators on stage. (Everyone from The Dandy Warhols to Peter Dinklage to Ben Sollee to Mirah to Garrison Keillor.)

Tickets cost $15 to $35 and are available through Ticketswest.com
