Community college offers emergency shelter training

SEASIDE — Be prepared to help your family and your community when disaster strikes if things go sideways from weather or man-made events. People who are already trained, certified volunteers can provide invaluable comfort, information and even life-saving skills.

Comprehensive Shelter Training is a five-session course taught by Red Cross-certified instructors, which trains and certifies participants in a variety of skills effective in operating an emergency shelter. Basic food safety, psychological first aide, serving people with functional and access needs, and reconnecting people through the Red Cross Safe & Well online system are some of the areas addressed in the course.

Allison Coffinberger will share her experience running warming centers and discuss differences between shelters and warming centers.

The section Shelter Fundamentals includes procedures for setting up, running and closing a shelter during a disaster. A case study and a final Shelter Exercise simulation complete the course.

The course is free. Classes meet at Clatsop Community College's Seaside campus, 1455 N. Roosevelt Drive, next to Diamond Heating.

The first two classes will be from 6 to 9 p.m. Jan. 27 and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Jan. 28. The final three classes will be held the following weekend, Feb. 3 and 4, on the same Friday and Saturday schedule. The final simulation exercise will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 5.

Register now by calling Clatsop Community College at 503-338-2402. Or register online at www.clatsopcc.edu/schedule by typing in the course number SOC93001 or the title Red Cross Comprehensive Shelter Training. For more information, call 503-325-6886.

Hear from Nick Jaina at the Liberty Theatre

ASTORIA — The Liberty Theatre will host Portland musician and writer Nick Jaina for the musical lecture "Hearts & Brains" from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, Jan. 20.

Jaina has toured the world in the last decade, releasing several albums on HUSH Records and Fluff & Gravy Records, including his latest, "Brutal Lives."

His first book, "Get It

While You Can," is a memoir about a love of music and the world. The book was a finalist for the 2016 Oregon Book Award for creative nonfiction.

Jaina recently published a limited-edition letterpressed essay, "How to enjoy dance," to support the Independent Publication Resource Center in Portland.

Jaina has composed soundtracks for feature films, plays and ballets. He is co-founder and musical director of the Satellite Ballet and Collective in New York City, which has collaborated with dancers from the New York City Ballet and Julliard.

Tickets cost $15 and are available through ticketswest.com. The Liberty Theatre is located at 1203 Commercial St.
