Homelessness the focus of free talk at Astoria Public Library

ASTORIA —Home is one of the most intimate places we can know. It's a place that provides for and shapes our expression of security, identity and even play.

But an estimated 100 million people around the world lack shelter, and as many as one billion lack adequate permanent housing. In the U.S., families with children are the fastest-growing segment of the homeless population. How does homelessness affect the lives of all people within a community? What does it mean for there to be masses of people who are not adequately housed?

This is the focus of "Homeless in the Land of Plenty," a free conversation with Ryan Stroud at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 27 at the Astoria Public Library, located at 450 10th St. This program is hosted by Astor Library Friends Association and sponsored by Oregon Humanities.
