Pies, pizza and potatoes: Real food takes a bow onstage

By MARK KENNEDY Associated Press

NEW YORK — There's a new version of the frightful musical "Sweeney Todd" playing in downtown Manhattan that's undeniably meatier than most.

dreamed up the mash-up, which also happens to have real mashed potatoes. "It just gives people a different way in and a different way to experience something that they might not have thought of before."

The meat pies — created by a former White House executive pastry chef — are just part of a new wave of real food invading the world of theater, upping the realism as well as the immersive experience.

Pierogi are tossed to patrons at the Broadway musical "Natasha, Pierre and the Great Comet of 1812 " and real pizza slices are eaten onstage at "A Bronx Tale." Off-Broadway, the cast members of "Everybody " munch on veggie burgers, actors in "Man From Nebraska " nibble on french fries, ham and oatmeal, and a risotto is attempted at the play "Linda."

More pies — this time, sweet dessert ones — appear
