The River City Playhouse in Ilwaco, Wash., is home to the Loyalty Days Follies.

Auditions for Loyalty Day Follies

ILWACO, WASH. — Auditions for The Loyalty Day Follies — a show featuring a variety of vocal, instrumental and comic talents from the area — takes place 5:30 to 7 p.m. Thursday, April 27, at the River City Playhouse, 127 Lake St., S.E. Ilwaco, Washington.

The show itself will be held 7 p.m. Friday, May 5, at the Playhouse. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Loyalty Days Children's Parade.

This marks the fourth consecutive year that Loyalty Days Weekend on Long Beach Peninsula begins with the Follies, a family-friendly, all-ages event.

Among other acts, youngsters from Ocean Park and Long Beach Elementary School will play piano and sing.

Vocalists should bring sheet music. Piano accompaniment is available at both the audition and the performance. Patriotic songs are not required, but community and family-oriented material is welcome.

For anyone unable to come to the April 27 audition or in need of additional information, contact Barbara Bate, accompanist and coordinator, at bategofish@gmail.com, call 360-665-4421 or text her at 360-244-5566.

Grow your garden with a Master Gardeners workshop

ILWACO, WASH. — Looking to create or enhance a garden landscape this spring?

Washington State University's Master Gardeners of Pacific County will present a workshop, "Sustainable Gardening by Propagating Plants," 10 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday, April 22, at the Columbia Pacific Heritage Museum, 115 S.E. Lake St..

Participants — who must bring a small knife — will learn how to propagate plants with stem cuttings. The workshop will give gardeners stem cuttings to take home.

From 10 a.m. to noon, gardeners will have a chance to ask a Master Gardener plant-related questions and bring them plant problems. (Gardeners are encouraged to bring samples of their plant problems.)

A plant and garden sale is from 10 a.m. to noon in a tent stand outside the museum. Japanese honeyberry shrubs, quaking Aspens, peonies and coir will be available.
