Vaudeville Etiquette

Vaudeville Etiquette plays at Fort George

ASTORIA — Vaudeville Etiquette, a Seattle quintet, will perform at Fort George Brewery 8 to 10 p.m. Sunday, April 30.

The band combines timeless melodies and modern lyrics, the sounds of country with classic rock.

“Their live performances are magnetic and provocative. Duo lead vocals and a wailing pedal steel dive from energetic anthems to wistful ballads and back again with psychedelia and fearless on-stage improvisation,” the band’s website states.

Smooth, sultry jazz singer and guitarist to play in Cannon Beach

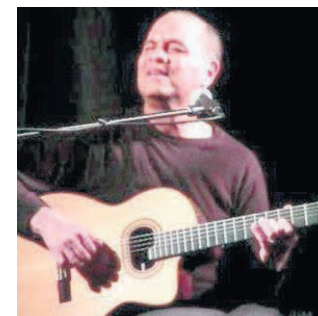

CANNON BEACH — Acclaimed singer-songwriter Adlai Alexander will perform at the Cannon Beach History Center & Museum (1387 South Spruce St.) at 7 p.m. Friday, April 28.

Seating is limited. Tickets are $15 and include refreshments.

JazzNow Magazine has called him a “skilled writer, vibrant singer, and hotshot guitarist.”

Noted for the sweetness and wide vocal range, Alexander sings and plays intricate guitar in a way that is rare in the acoustic and jazz worlds. His repertoire is inspired by sources as diverse as Broadway and the Amazon rain forest. He is known to sing in Portuguese, Hindi, or Japanese in any given set.

Alexander — who has shared the stage with artists such as Randy Newman and Leo Kottke — performed live weekly with host Ben Fong-Torres as music director of the variety show “Fog City Radio” on KQED-FM San Francisco. He’s also written music for theater, dance and classical chamber groups.

Adlai Alexander

Along with original music, he has written lyrics for his own renditions of instrumental songs by the likes of Wayne Shorter, Dave Brubeck and Ralph Towner. He has also created lyrics based on quotes from Shakespeare, or titles of Duke Ellington songs.

The Cannon Beach History Center & Museum is a private non-profit museum featuring seasonal historic, textile and artistic exhibits. Get tickets at www.cbhistory.org or by phone by calling 503-436-9301.
