Seaside Heights students recognized in DAR contests

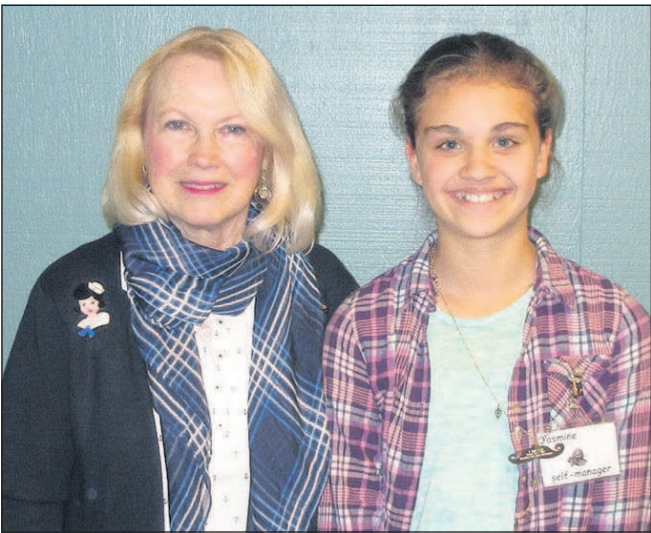

The Daily Astorian

Seaside Heights Elementary School students participated in the Daughters of the American Revolution school contests. This year's theme was "Celebrate 100 Years of Our National Parks."

On May 1, at the school's assembly, Astoria Chapter DAR recognized this year's participants for the American History Essay, Mayte Jantes-Becerra and Raine Chan. First place went to Jasmine Schermerhorn, who received an American History Essay medal.

For their entries in the Junior American Citizens Contest, Creative Expression Stamp Design Category, Keira Rodriguez and Raine Chan were honored. Jantes-Becerra was the first place chapter winner, and she also placed first at the state level for her entry. She and her parents have been invited to attend the Oregon State Society DAR conference in May.

Each of the girls received a gift bag with their certificates, and books commemorating national parks.

Jan Jackson is state Elks Officer of Year

The Daily Astorian

SEASIDE — The Oregon State Elks Association held its 100th summer session in Seaside the last weekend in April. During the event, Jan Jackson, convention co-chairwoman and treasurer of Seaside Elks Lodge, was awarded the Oregon State Elks Association's Officer of the Year. She stated that this award would not be possible without the cooperation, volunteerism and dedication of Seaside Lodge 1748 members. Approximately 750 Elks, guests and honored dignitaries attended the three-day convention, which provided updates on the Elks' many projects and charities. Millions of dollars and hours have been donated to youth outreach, scholarships, veterans and first responders, as well as to state and local charities. The OSEA's summer session next year will also be held in Seaside.

Seaside Lodge welcomes new members. For information, stop by the lodge at 324 Avenue A, call 503-738-6651 or email seasideelks@yahoo.com

Outstanding CCC research papers earn scholarships

The Daily Astorian

Each spring at Clatsop Community College, students are invited to submit their best research papers to be entered into an Information Literacy competition with scholarship prizes. The papers are submitted to the CCC Library director, who then evaluates them using information literacy criteria.

The winners for the 2016-17 academic year are: Alisyn Smith, $300, "Aspects of Historic Preservation: Project Funding & Adaptive Reuse"; Emily Wexler, $175, "What are Zoos Good For?"; Johanna Hankel, $175, "Vaccines: Good or Bad?"; Morgan Brown, $175, "The Ticket to a Better Life"; and Kelsey Medeiros-Garcia, $175, "The Right to Love."

Award funds for this competition are raised through library coffee sales and through the generosity of Columbia River Coffee Roasters.

Q Center seeks new directors

The Daily Astorian

The Lower Columbia Q Center is offering the public an opportunity to serve on the group's board of directors.

The fledgling grassroots nonprofit, located in Astoria, provides support, education and community building for the LGBT community.

Term appointments are up for the group's board. Bylaws require that the group offers community members the opportunity to serve on its governing board to encourage growth and diversity of thought.

Anyone interested can find an application and more information at www.lcqcas-toria.org. Submit applications by May 31 via mail or email. Interviews will be held June 21.

LGBT group

The Lower Columbia Q Center has created a general LGBT group to help connect people in Clatsop, Columbia, Tillamook and Pacific, Washington, counties.

The group meets at the Astoria Armory, 1636 Exchange St., at 6 p.m. each second Wednesday of the month. For more information, call Chris Wright at 425-314-3388.
